THE STOCK MARKET OF THE WEEK

The following table shows the week's highest, lowest, and closing prices, ndividual sales, and net changes of all securities sold on the New York stock exchange last week. High and low are also given for the full year 1912 and the year 1913 to date:

	and the yes		date: Railway and Miscellaneous Shar		r the fu	il year l
	1912. 11igh, Low.	High. Lo	owW	eek E		b. 8, 191; Clos. N.
	12% 60	12% 9 80% 704	Allis-Chalmers Co 3d pd Allis-Chalmers Co. pr. 3d pd Amalgamated Copper	400 7,100	5% 57 5% 71% 5% 63%	9% + 12% -
	10416 98	57 461 99 97 69% 35	Am. Ag. Chem. pr	200 1	1814 1814 1714 8714	53% + 55% +
	160 130 1	9614 933 35% 130	Am. Brake Shoe & Fdry pr	300 1	6 135	195 +
	26% 50% I	56% 513	American Car & Fdry Co	0,500 12 500 E	7% 124 4% 53	12814 -
	84% 75%	48% 47 1836 76% 57% 489	American Cities pr	100 1,800	7% 124 4% 53 77% 47% 76% 76%	76% — 51 —
	30% 180 1	166 160 <sup>9</sup> 247, 20 444, 283	American Express American Ice Securities	800 1	34 117	2274
	1016 103 1	06% 104° 61% 57	American Locomotive pr	800 16 200 8	5% 104% 7% 57%	206 — 57% — 78% —
	109% 102% 1 113% 123 1	92 1877	American Smelting pr	100 19	7 106%	190 -
		40% 33 18 1133 16% 115	Amercian Sugar	400 11 400 11	7% 117% 6% 115%	381/4 + 1171/4 -
	14934 19744 14	66% 64 60 1819	American Tel & Tel	100 6	4 64	64 -
	N	94% 276 96% 103 81 773	American Woolen pr	.000	254 181% 4% 280% 6% 105% 9% 17%	10646 7944 —
	48 34 1 12756 10656 1	38 115	Assets Real Co	300 3 300 3 100 11	8 364	30 - 37% -
	14814 12014 13 101% 49	128	Atlantic Coast Line	500 13	1275	49
	91 86%	88 834	Baltimore & Ohlo 1 Baltimore & Ohlo pr	200	3% 102	102%
H	80 56% 81 60%	65 69	B F Goodrich Co	100 6	944 3744 844 6644 159 344 1634	451/4 1639/4 —
ı	100% 80 1	0514 1031 1214 1814 1614 1814	Brooklyn Rapid Transit 5 Central I ather pr	300 9	176 9414	103% — 90% — 95% +1
ı	20% 15% 1	9 76% 17% 16 15 31	Chesapeake & Ohlo	600 71 400 11	1716	78 - 17 + 33 +
	146 139% 14	116% 110	Chie Mil & St. Paul pr	746 211	141%	111114 -2
в	30% 25	4 53 17% 40%	C. C. C. & St. L	100 5	36 40%
	45 3214 S	1136 31 3 29 2% 18:14	Colorado & Southern	,200 41 ,175 31 ,460 135	16 29	2914 -1
ı	98 92 9		Cuin American Sugar no	200 9	76	90 -1
ı	JUT 7530 144	5 466 1 87 0% 784	Deere Co. pr & W. subs Delsware, Lack & W. subs Denver & Rio Grands of Detroit United R. R.	300 90 100 37	- 10	100 90 —1 37% —
	36% 20 E	24 30	Distilling Securities 1	200 20	-	19% + 31 - ŀ	48 28 4	1 38	Erie 2d pr 14	600 48	4814 4814	4814 - ı	15 106% 10		General Chem. Co. pr I,	200 40 100 108 233 143	108	108 + 141% -
Ř	82% 70% 7	77%	General Motors pr	100 34 500 79 900 129	78	79 +
ĕ	S 36 4	154 975 274 1774	Guggenbelm Exploration	900 40 200 50	3814	50% -1
E	112 86% 13 141% 120% 12	856 121	Illinois Oentral	300 117 800 135	117 14 12814	128% +
H	43% 36 3 99 89 43 67% 52% 16	9 81 0 86 5% 50		100 80	% 50	31 -2 80 -2 634 -1
ı	125% 105% 118	1061/4 5 113%	International Harvester 3.	900 116 900 115	1104 1113%	114
ŀ	95% 90 9	1 107%	J. Kayser pr	100 47 500 94 300 108		93 108% —
ı.	1011/4 997/4 101 81 741/4 3 211/4 221/4 3	9014 14 14 25	Kan Chty, Pt. S. & M. pr	225 109 100 74 500 25	74	108% +34 74 — 1
ŀ	55 45 45 56 71 56	45 554 45	Kenes Company	100 - 60 100 - 45 100 - 81		90% - 10 45 -10
	105% 25 4 105% 162% 16 185% 165% 16	1% 43 1% 103% 163%	Lackede Gas	500 49 300 108	% 47% % 105%	45 +24 1031/4 + 1
	235 156% 226 118 166% 116	213 616 11416	Lagett & Myers Tob. Co 2,	900 226	223	1614 2234 -11 1144 -2 384 + 1
	4716 36 36 105% 102% 101 80% 90 35	146%	Loose Wiles Biscuit Co. 1st pr Loose Wiles Biscuit Co. 2d pr.	800 116 700 39 800 104 109 94	34	38% + 1 103% - 1
ľ	170 138 142 134% 134% 136 83% 75% 87	136% 138% 814	Louisville & Nashville Louisville & Nashville lat pd Mackay Companies	OD 129	238%	138% - 1 158% +4 84 - 9
r	136% 125% 125 86 89 76 96% 62% 78	1	Louisville & Nashville lat pd. Mackay Companies  Manhatian Elevated May Departmen; Stores  Mexican Petroleum  12.	00 132 00 75 00 78	132 5 7646	1584, +41 84 - 4 1204, + 755, +1 765, +2
	15404 129 142	96% 1875	M. S. P. & S. St. M	00 140	6 98% 6 139%	130%
ı	131 122 134	100	National Leader	00 1197 66 1304 00 523 00 107	6 119 6 120 6 62	119 -3 120% - 7 52% - 1 106 -19
ŀ	1994 514 56 1994 1054 107 36% 36% 27 1214 1064 109	100%	Nat. R. R. of Mex. 2d pr 1	00 24	24	10619 241 108 3
	671/2 53 63 142/4 126 129 55 43/4 43	58 127% 424	N. Y. Chic. & St. Louis 1	00 58 00 1295 00 425	58	58 1294 — 3 424 — 3
ı	119% 107% 113 87% 74% 81 19% 56 75	100%	Norfolk & Western 4.6	00 1107 00 804	80	8014 - 1
,	131% 115% 1229 55% 45 46	11716	North American 2 North Ohio Tr. & Light 4 Northern Pacific 4 Pacific Tei. & Tei 3 Pennsylvania Raliroad 22,6	00 745 00 1305 00 405	11874	74% + % 119% + % 40 + %
1	123% 122 116 111% 100 99	113%	Philadelphia Company	00 115½ 00 99	115	1364 - 4
L	98% 25% 28 96% 97% 98 100% 77 95	27	Pettibone Muliken Co 4	00 28% 00 98% 00 92%	195%	25% + % 96% -1 91% -1
	118 107% 116	110	P. Lorillard	00 200 00 11536	195	195 —214 11474 — 54
	103% 28% 38 103% 96 1011 175 158% 165	16134	Pressed Steel Car	09 100 63 162	9914	38 - 16 100 - 16
3	1794 1494 1883 984 874 613	1975	Reading	00 314 00 1664 00 91	31% 164%	31¼ —1¼ 165¼ 50% + ¼
	9814 8714 511 10114 5214 82 3514 1514 281 8814 6414 521 584 4214 44	91	Republic Iron & Steel 4.7 Republic Iron & Steel pr. 1.0	00 28		9167 — 1 2714 — 1 87 —2
	101 88% 923	4 87	Rumely 13.8	90 90	42 881/2	43 + % 884 -14
	16346 9946 994 5646 4444 464 2044 1736 194		Rumely pr	99 47% 99 18	47%	97 —1 47% 17
	6974 5814 58 670% 2614 29 57 47 541	551/4 251/4	St. Louis & San Francisco & St. Louis & San Francisco & St. Louis & San Fran 1st pr. 2 St. L. & S. F. C. & E. Histok 16 Sears Rosouck 55	0 28	5614 2714 50	57 27% +1% 50 -2
	221 140 2134 3846 2816 454 106 94 931	201 44 981/4	Sears Rosauck	0 207 0 45	206 5 45	96 —2% 45 — 14 9314 —74
	1151/4 1031/4 110 861/4 681/4 SI	78%	Southern Railway pr 136	0 107%	203% 1	04% -3% 80% + % 96% - %
	68 63 667 491/4 30 36 361/4 901/4 931 471/4 341/4 351	321/2	Standard Milling pr 20 Studebaker Studebaker pr 10	0 36 0 93	34%	90% — % 36 +1% 93 + % 55 +1%
	130% 81 122% 43% 33% 40%	112	Studebaker pr.         10           Tennessee Copper         2,50           Texas Company         1,00           Third Avenue R. R.         1,00	0 35%	33%	25 +1% 26 -1 29 - %
	115% 96 99% 67% 35% 41%	30	Union Bag & Paper pr 1.20	0 97 0 30%	97	97 31 —5
	95% 88% 93% 94% 47 50%	8514 4634	Union Pacific 150,90 Union Pacific pr. 95 United Cigar 30	0 50%	50	61 1954 — % 50% +1
1	1024, 97 101 1087, 1021, 1054 694, 57 684	2 557	United Dry Goods	0 981/4 0 1051/4	9614 16614 1	981/2 - 14 951/2 +8 59 -2
	106 95 95 8614 67 77 67% 4514 6814	565.	II & Ind Alconol	0.05	95	95 73% + 16 67% +216
1	116 105% 169 50% 58% 59%	1051/2	U. S. Realty & Imp. 20 U. S. Rubber	0 107%	100% 1	64% - 14
	117 1074 1104 674 524 606 674 564 434	85	Virginia Car, Chem 59	0 54% 0 36	$106% 11 52% 35%	08% + 1% 54 - 1% 36 -1
	22% 114% J14 55 41 55% 54% 45 46	109	Va. Car. Chem. pr 10 Virginia Rwy & Power 56	654	109% 1 54% 43%	0944 — 14 1614 +414 4414 + 14
1	861/4 72 751/4 881/4 681/4 791/4 175/4 821/4 112	70 7254 99	West Maryland.         2,85           Western Union Tele         85           Westinghouse Mfg         90           Woolworth         2,50	9 72% 0 73% 9 106%	72%	72% 十%
i	62% 48 53	46	Wisconsin Central 40	116 5 53	504	06¼ +1¼ 15 +1¼ 53 +6
	fEx-dividend	nening	rights. *Dealt in for the first	time t	his we	sk, net

Pamphlet Is Issued On "Invalid Cookery"

changes from opening price. Total sales for the week, 1,212,171,

"Lessons in Cooking for the Sick and Convalencent" is the title of the latest Government "cook-book."

The publication was prepared and printed for the use of the cooking class of the Nurses' Training School of the Government Hospital for the Insane, but the subject is of such general interest that arrangements have been made for the sale of the pamphlet by the superintendent of documents of the Government Printing Office, at 5 cents a copy.

Fifteen Use Towel; Only One Complains

Traveling agents of the Treasury Department are having a difficult time enforcing the new public health rule requiring individual towels in public Government Hospital for the Insane, but the subject is of such general interest that arrangements have been made for the sale of the pamphlet by the superintendent of documents of the Government Printing Office, at a cents a copy.

While the recipes in the pamphlet were compiled primarily for the sick, they are of interest to all persons destring simple and wholesome dishes. The life recipes cover a wide range, including soups, fish systems eggs, steaks, chops, saleds, desserts, and beverages.

IN LOCAL FINANCIAL CIRCLES

By GEORGE H. GALL

The statements of the banks in response to the Comptroller's call for their condition at the close of business February 4 discloses, if anything, the solidity and forward advance of Washington business. One would expect that with the formation of a new national bank, as an offshoot from an established national bank, showing deposits in its first statement of around $700,000 that the individual deposits of banks in the neighborhood would show some impress in this item in their statements.

But such is not the case.

The individual deposits reported by Tresident Leiter will undoubtedly be re-elected at the meeting of the directors tomorrow afternoon.

the new bank, the Federal National, were $673,815. Yet the individual de-posits of the Commercial National stood at $2,224,818, a loss of only $391,512. Had by N. W. Halsey & Co., presents a table

The second edition of the booklet, "The Most Satisfactory Bonds," issued posits of the Commercial National stood at $2,224,818, a loss of only $391,512. Had the statement been made as of the 8th, it is said that loss would have appeared as only about $300,000.

More than that, the individual deposits of other banks in the neighborhood not only did not show losses, but showed gains, and in many instances considerable ones. A few of the actual figures will serve to illustrate the fact. The individual deposits of the District National Bank, a few doors from the new Federal, actually were 102,573 greater than they were on the call of November 28.

The American National Bank's individual deposits showed an increase of $175,357.

The Washington and Southern Bank made a comfortable increase in this item, and so did the National Metro-

- "	The American National Bank's in-	the sake of large	pronts, a	re willing	ber. Overpowered and ortificed in a	came to the was when Don Alver and a	10
- 12	dividual deposits showed an increase of	If they amay the	difficult 1	pursuit of it	- orack in the Booring, that he is ander a	came to the deer to chase me off; for as the old gentleman said, there we but few days left until I should har	re of
1%	175,297. The Washington and Southern Bank	and their clients	are bou	nd to wuffe	for Maripose a weeding foost. During the	her forever, and it was but most the	2 F
	made a comfortable increase in this	ties."	es of uns	ound secur	When he awales the merriment above	himself.	関係をか
7	litem, and so did the National Metro-	One of the effec	ts of the	present cui	When he are a because the accretision above him has changed to maudite enging; the door of his prison is wide over and a propersion must be a propersion and a propersion must on the floor. Rovin, meaning and, write until Maripoon should innove the hell, which she does alone. Coming swiftly to him, she urges him to escape, tells him she has pointed the whole plan, and that she has pointed the whole plan. The whiching of the flooring of Don John's child, Maripoon and Rovin or Don John's child, Maripoon and Rovin or the flooring of Alexander Manustries, who takes the years of the with young Jamio, the faired of Kilalka.	A be always wild, my effaire cost mor	10. I
11	The Union Savings Bank, another	rency system of	this count	ry le a per	mad, waits until Maripole should leave	As he always said, my effairs cost mo- time than I was worth: A messeag- had to be cent to Missian, talling of p	171
3	neighbor, gained $101,712 in individual deposits subject to check and nearly	prices. In the fall,	when fur	ds are need	swiftly to him, she urges him to escape.	approaching marriage and return.  And certes, and Managerie, they dinns like it they can lump it, it argyll is not o' patience of them. Bu	w V
2%	The Washington Loan and Trust Com-	ed to finance the	arge Jahu	ary interes	and that she has policical the whole class. With the aid of Bordenux, who, Rorie	they dinne like it they can lump it, for Argyll is not o' patience wi' them. Bu
- 1	pany, hardly a neighbor, however, showed increased individual deposits of	is in such deman	d that be	inks and in	y learns, is in quest of Don John's child, Maripose and Rorig escape to Gingers.	hoot toot! They'll be giad to see you led. I gied then a harangue that' ding in their ears after they're deld.	ii .
1	Another encouraging feature of the	I dividuats sell thei	r security	the more	ber in hot pursuit. At the house of Alex-	ding in their ears after they're deld.	ž.
14	banks' showing is that, whereas there was much "window-dressing" prepara-	I market. Atter	JABUATY 1	this mone	couple in, Storie finds himself face to face	man in Cowal-Guid forgi's me for the lee-and struck a peace wir the Mac	100
1.	tory to the long delayed call of No- vember 25, there was comparatively none	I again invested in	SECURITION.	DOOLI-FOLI	CHAPTER XXX	donalds, so that from now there's a	n me
11/4	for the only of Webinings of	I DIEKE TO THE TOURS	CORDEGE 1	n the mone		"How did ve make the peace?"	I Co
14	is that of the North Capitol Savings	from one to the	e points	in the las	t Provided was a great day for Maripos	"How?" chuckled Macmurtrie. "Ah's	P 10 P 20 A 2
34	Bank, one of the late additions to the banking institutions of the city. The	greater demand.	Short-terr	m notes, th	e	rules for once I played two sides of	U
7	statement of that bank on the call of November 26 showed individual deposits	market for the	employmen	nt of fundy	gentleman who had traveled ou	ti The Macdonald's death troubled m	9 3
16	subject to check of $22.650, and there was no item of savings deposits. in the	ing to note how	far the	e securitie	now know was no more It seemed w		El Lab
1/2	individual deposits of $57,748 and savings	lave come back	erm high-	grade bond	if Heaven, in giving Maripose, a name	Though Guld forsi'e me, he's dead	State of the last
4	deposits of $29,530, or an increase in de-	have guined only	about h	have dop	had consoled me with one, too; and the	e puir man! Keep your tongue still, lad	1 3
1/4	in capital stock was also increased from	better, reveral of	them gal	ning over	shorn lamb had poured balm upon the	that represident comes here-Hech, sire	Col
3	were extended from $51,443 to $116,500.	which means ma	my points	dectine is	the ald man Den faller attle	Young Jamie did come, it was or the day before the wedding. I me	1 Del
*	The statements of practically all the banks in detail will appear in The	The Wester	Control of the Control		His coming was a wondrous surprise to all of us. Even Macmurtrie who	him as he came out of Macmurine's
*	Times tomorrow.	A review of the			had a complete understanding of his	office. What passed between the law-	ret
i	Gas Combination Coming.	discloses the fact					10
16	That the ultimate result of the liti-	vere dealt in that	had not b	een touched	don at the behest of "the Lunnon britis	the East India Company, which was	Ger
11/2	gation between the Washington Gas	previously this ye			for others in the employ of the apan	one thing and another young Jamie
3/2	Light and Georgetown Gas Companies, the proposed investigation by Congress	Insurance Compan	ny, and (	breene Can	Here was the power of rank and un-	I sometimes feel sorry for him.
*	of the former company and the in- creased price of gas to Georgetown con-	anea. A large bi	at 8%		the greater power of human love was	the lawyer's office. At first I hardly	den
% 10	sumers will be the consolidation of the	Price changes .			this old man. In the winter of his years	him. I held out my head.	C
214	two companies and the restoration of Si-cent gas to all the District is the	tomac Raffresd 5's	s dropped	from 101 to	he had came out of Spain into a coun-	"Ye can afford to be!" he snarled.	Mrs
14	confident belief of Howard Receids,	ington railroad bo			find few friends in those days in the	marched away. 1 let nim go.	100
244	Light Company. That this consumma-	this issue Wash	ington I	tallway 4's	urave lad who had saled with the in-		都
1/4	tion may not long be deferred is also more than a possibility.	the last sale show	ed a lower	r price than	Den Alvar had not heard of Bor-	I ever lorget that morning as the post-	Par
%	Mr. Reeside aiso asserts that there is	other new highs w	rere set, l	12 for Poto-	had been his with that no means in	INVESTI AT COURSE When Markeney and
14	no friction between the companies, as is popularly supposed, and that the Wash-	Metropolitan Bank Rallway preferred	914 for	Washington	termine his son's fate, for, as I have	Ringan Scouler and the oursets and the	of Chair
7	ington company is ready to supply gas	ington Gas. New lows were			was an only son, and by his life on
21/4	to the Georgetown company at any time. The spectacle, however, of two	Railroad 6's. Las	costia and		most the entire province of Spain. But	while Mariposa and I inseparable at	Mer
	companies serving a field in which there should be but one and in such a way	and United States	Trust sh	lowed sales	if this hope was slain the moment he	Ahead of us raced another chaise with	Co
7	as to make it impossible for the smaller	the year. The sha	ding in L	anston was	heard the tale of it. a new hope sprang with the new love for his child schild.	Don' Alvar and Bordeaux, while Alex- ander completely occupied another be- hind us, armed with his precious must-	May
*	producer to furnish gas to ts customers as cheaply as the larger, is one which	half. A feature of the			Don Alvar's ship lay at Lestn, whence it had salled from London. The mo-	DOX and volumes of legal instruments
*	is believed to be not much longer pos-	ing out of some G	eorgetown	Gas stock	ment I heard of this ship my heart	lang and I can think of no regret no	Stro
7	Indeed, both companies are favorable	and two successive out result except to	o furnish	quotations.	to bear Mariposa away from me to ner	piness that day. At the Clock Farry	-Ohr
1	to the proposition of combination, it is said, and if Congress would make the	Necessa	ry Kicke		own people. But when I spoke of it to her she shook her head.	the boats awaited with pipers in the	wia
2	way clear and the courts dispose of the pending litigation in a manner sa isfac-		T		"Some day, Rorie, I will go to Spain, but not before I have seen Klisilan	hows, and when we reached Kilelian Bay my heart swelled and my eyes filled to see my people waiting for me and
14	would be a monopoly capable and willing.	Redd-You say	he lins w	on several	of my sood fortune yet. "You have	my bride. A score of the men rushed waist-deep in the cold sea to bring us to
76						manage aced to cold see to britis in to	2
*	it is asserted, to furnish the whole Dis- trict gas at one price of $6 cents.	Green-Oh, yes; whether he wins	or loses	he always	now that I have a name and fortune,	land. A hundred claymores rose and
16	trict gas at one price of $6 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by pointing out	whether he wins	or loses	he always	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Rorie, to leave you?	two hundred voices shouted the hall:
16	trict gas at one price of $5 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by nointing out that the Washington company's con-	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you s	funny?	he always	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Rorie, to leave you?" "Thank you, lass," I could only say.	then the pipes shricked in time. Rod- erick Dow seized my hand and wrung it hard. And I know then that he had
	trict gas at one price of $5 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by pointing out that the Washington company's con-	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how	funny?	he always	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Rorie, to leave you?  "Thank you, lass," I could only say.  "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.	two hundred voices shouted the hall; then the pipes shricked in time. Rod- erick Dow seized my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the ciec.	Ber port from
	trict gas at one price of $5 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by nointing out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you s at swimmer.—You	funny? ee he's a ters State	profession- sman	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Rorie, to leave you?"  "Thank you, lass," I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Den Alvar—	then the pipes shricked in time. Rod- erick Dow seised my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the	Ber port from lands duty
	trict gas at one price of $5 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by nointing out that the Washington company's con-	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you s at swimmer.—You	funny? ee he's a ters State	profession- sman	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Rorie, to leave you?  "Thank you, lass," I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvar—my grandfather?"  "Lass, I could almost think he is	two hundred voices shouted the hall; then the pipes shricked in time. Rod-erick Dow seized my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning. I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has	Ber port from lands duty conv pileb
16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 1	trict gas at one price of $6 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by non-ling out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RA	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you sal swimmer.—You	funny? see ha's a ters State	profession- sman.	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like. Rorie, to leave you?"  "Thank you, lass." I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad." she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvarmy grandfather?"  "Lass. I could almost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh." she breathed, with a strange	two hundred voices shouted the hall; then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seised my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning, I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been	Ber port from lands duty conv pitch rease
16	rict gas at one price of $6 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by nonling out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washington	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you s al swimmer.—Youk	funny? see ha's a ters State	profession- sman.	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like. Rorie, to leave you?  "Thank you, lass." I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvar—my grandfather?" "Lass. I could almost think he is your father grown old." "Oh:" she breathed, with a strange are. "And you." I whispered passionately.	two hundred voices shouted the hall; then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seised my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the heginning, I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Maripusa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way	Ber port from lands duty conv pitch rease decis Mac not a
16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 1	rict gas at one price of $6 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by nonling out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washington	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you sal swimmer.—You	funny? see ha's a ters State	profession- sman.	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Rorie, to leave you?  "Thank you, lass," I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was. "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvar—my grandfather?"  "Lass, I could almost think he is your father grown old." "Oh!" she breathed, with a strange awe. "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you	two hundred voices shouted the hall; then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seised my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the heginning. I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Maripusa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordeaux and Maripusa both promised to help me, but they have nestered me	port from land duty conv pitch rease decis Mac not the
16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 1	rict gas at one price of $6 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by nonling out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washington	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you s al swimmer.—Your gton St. ck Exter to Date.	funny? see ha's a ters State	profession- sman.	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Roris, to leave you?  "Thank you, lass," I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Den Alvar—my grandfather?" "Lass, I could almost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh!" she breathed, with a strange a we, "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down.	two hundred voices shouted the hall; then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seised my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the heginning, I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordeaux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordeaux wrote a bit, but it was so strangely worded that	Bee port from lands duty conv pilate react decis Mac not a tre This from
    *	In regard to the price of $6 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by non-ting out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RAI  Of Securities on the Washing Caien ar Ye	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you s al swimmer.—Your gton St. ck Exter to Date.	funny? see ha's a ters State	profession- sman. ES for the	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Rorie, to leave you?  "Thank you, lass." I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvar—my grandfather?"  "Lass. I could almost think he is your father grown old." "Oh." she breathed, with a strange awe. "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did." "We do," she said simply. "But you."	two hundred voices shouted the hall; then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seized my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the heginning, I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Maripusa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordeaux and Maripusa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordeaux wrote a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hegged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would av promise to write.	Bee port from lands duty conv plish reason decis Mac not a tne Thi tariff from lin Q facto
    *	In regard to the price of $6 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by noining out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Caien ar Ye  (Furnished by W. AMOUNT. BONDS.  $65,500 Capital Traction 5's	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you sal swimmer.—Your Stock Extent to Date.  B. Hibbs & Co.) High.	funny? see he's a ters State  PRIC  change	profession- sman.	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Roris, to leave you?  "Thank you, lass," I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Den Alvar—my grandfather?"  "Lass, I could almost think he is your father grown old." "Oh!" she breathed, with a strange a we, "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you must not doubt me again, Rorie. It	two hundred voices shouted the hall; then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seised my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning, I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordeaux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordeaux wrote a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hesged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would ay promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last.	Be port from land duty conv pitch rand decis line in the tariff from in Q facto sendi
    *	In regard to the price of $6 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by noining out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Calen ar Ye  (Furnished by W.  AMOUNT. BONDS. $65,500 Capital Traction 5's	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you sal swimmerYour Stock Extent to Date.  B. Hibbs & Co.) High. 111 1104	funny? see he's a ters State  PRIC  change	profession-sman.  ES  for the	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Rorie, to leave you?  "Thank you, lass." I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvar—my grandfather?"  "Lass. I could almost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh!" she breathed, with a strange awe.  "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—l think I—"	then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seised my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the heginning, I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordeaux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordeaux wrote a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hegged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would ay promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faults with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nich construction.	Ber port from lands duty conv pilsh rease
16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 1	In regard to the price of $6 cents. In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by noining out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Caten ar Ye  (Furnished by W.  AMOUNT. BONDS. $65,500 Capital Traction 5's	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you sal swimmer. Your gton St. ck Exter to Date.  B. Hibbs & Co.) High. 11042 R. 5's 101	FRIC	profession-sman.  ES  tor the  Last. 110% 110% 98%	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Roris, to leave you?  "Thank you, lass," I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvar—my grandfather?"  "Lass, I could almost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh!" she breathed, with a strange awe, "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you, must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn.	then the pipes shricked in time. Rod- erick Dow seised my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the heginning. I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischlevous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordeaux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordeaux wrote a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hegged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would ay promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faulte with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages	Be port from lands duty conv pitals from tariff from in Q facto sendito th
    *	SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Caten ar Ye  (Furnished by W.  AMOUNT. BONDS. $65,500 Capital Traction 5's	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you sal swimmer. Your Stock Extent to Date.  B. Hibbs & Co.) High. 111 1101/2 R. 5's. 101 's. 103%	funny? lee he's a ters State  FRIC  change  Low. 110 109% 981/2 103%	profession-sman.  ES  tor the  Last. 110% 110% 98% 105%	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Roris, to leave you?"  "Thank you, lass," I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvar—my grandfather?"  "Lass, I could almost think he is your father grown old." "Oh!" she breathed, with a strange awe, "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn.  "I think I had better marry you." she said, quite seriously. "Then you will	two hundred voices shouted the hall; then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seised my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning, I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way. Bordeaux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordeaux wrote a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hegged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would ay promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faults with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so ansay over the	Be port from lands duty conv pitals from tariff from in Q facto sendito th
    *	In regard to the price of $6 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by noining out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Caten ar Year  (Furnished by W. AMOUNT. BONDS. $65,500 Capital Traction 5's	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you s al swimmer. Your star to Date.  B. Hibbs & Co.) High	FRIC  change  Low. 110 109% 981/2 103% 100%	profession-sman.  ES  tor the  Last. 110% 110% 98% 105% 100%	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Rorie, to leave you?  "Thank you, lass." I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad." she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvar—my grandfather?"  "Lass. I could almost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh!" she breathed, with a strange awe, "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do." she said simply. "But you must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn, "I think I had better marry you," she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again even if I ever wished to."	two hundred voices shouted the hall; then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seized my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning. I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordeaux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordeaux wrote a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hesged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would any promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faulte with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so angry over the things she said of herself that she has hever offered to help me with the book	Bee port from lands duty conv pitch reason decis afac not s tne This from in Q factos sendi
    *	In regard to the price of $6 cents. In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by noining out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Caten ar Year  (Furnished by W. AMOUNT. BONDS. $65,500 Capital Traction 5's.  10,500 Washington Gas 5's.  4,000 Anacostia & Potomac R. F. 1,000 City and Suburban R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 6's.  99,000 Washington Ry. & Electric	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you s al swimmer - Yonk  NGE OF  gton St ck Extern to Date.  B. Hibbs & Co.)  High.  111 1104 2 5's. 101 8 103% 1004 1014 4's. 85	funny? lee he's a ters State  FRIC  change  Low. 110 109% 981/2 103%	profession-sman.  ES  tor the  Last. 110% 110% 98% 105%	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Roris, to leave you?  "Thank you, lass," I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvar—my grandfather?"  "Lass, I could almost think he is your father grown old." "Oh:" she breathed, with a strange awe, "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you wild which is said, for she had grown terribly solemn. "I think I had better marry you," she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to."  "You dear, dear lass," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kiss of	then the pipes shricked in time. Rod- erick Dow seised my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning, I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way. Bordeaux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordeaux wrote a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hegged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would ay promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faulte with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so angry over the things she said of herself that she has never offered to help me with the book asadn.  Bug for all that it has been a sweet	Be port from lands duty conv pitals from tariff from in Q facto sendito th
    *	In regard to the price of $6 cents. In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by pointing out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Caten ar Year (Furnished by W. AMOUNT. BONDS. $65,500 Capital Traction 5's	### Wins ### Wins ### Wins ### Wicks.  Redd—Why, how Green—No, you s al swimmer—Yous ### ### ### ### ### ### ### ### ### #	Low. 110 109% 9814 100% 101%	profession-sman.  ES  tor the  Last. 110% 110% 103% 100% 100% 101%	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Roris, to leave you?  "Thank you, lass," I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father-like Don Alvarmy grandfather?"  "Lass, I could almost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh:" she breathed, with a strange awe, "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistress Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn.  "I think I had better marry you." she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to."  "You dear, dear leas," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kiss of our life and grown-up love If was a great day for us all. We	then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seised my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the heginning, I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Maripusa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordeaux and Maripusa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordeaux wrote a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hosged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would ay promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faults with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so angry over the things she said of herself that she has never offered to help me with the book acadn.  Bug for all that it has been a sweet task. There were times when my blood chilled at	Bee port from lands duty convey pilet reason to street a treet
    *	In regard to the price of $6 cents. In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by pointing out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Caten ar Ye  (Furnished by W.  AMOUNT. BONDS. $65,500 Capital Traction 5's	Whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you s al swimmer - Yonk  NGE OF  gton St. ck Except to Date.  B. Hibbs & Co.) High. 110 1/2 8 5's. 101 18 103% 100 1/4 4's. 85	Low. 110 109% 9812 100% 8814 100 105	ES tor the Last. 110% 100% 101% 84 101% 105	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Rorie, to leave you?"  "Thank you, lass," I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvar—my grandfather?"  "Lass, I could almost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh!" she breathed, with a strange awe, "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you, must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn, "I think I had better marry you," she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to."  "You dear, dear lass," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kiss of our life and grown-up love It was a great day for us all. We gathered in Mistress Macmurtie's par- lor for a grand story-telling. Don Al-	then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seised my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had been a good friend to me, as he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning. I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordeaux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordeaux worde a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hesged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would ay promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faults with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so angry over the things she said of herself that she has never offered to help me with the book again.  But for all that it has been a sweet task. There were times when my heart bied, times when my blood chilled at remembrance, and times when the tears of my shame fell upon the pages.	Bee port from lands duty conv pitable rease decis life. This tariff from in Q facto sendito the
The state of the s	In regard to the price of $5 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by noining out that the Washington compan, a contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Calen ar Ye  (Furnished by W.  AMOUNT. BONDS. $65,500 Capital Traction 5's	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you s al swimmer - Yonk  NGE OF  gton St.ck Extern to Date.  B. Hibbs & Co.) High. 110 110 12 R. 5's. 101 's. 103 14 100 14 4's. 85 102 105 14	Low. 110 109% 881/2 100 105 1041/2	ES tor the Last. 110% 110% 100% 101% 105 104%	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Roris, to leave you?  "Thank you, lass." I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvar—my grandfather?"  "Lass. I could almost think he is your father grown old." "Oh:" she breathed, with a strange awe, "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn.  "I think I had better marry you." she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to."  "You dear, dear lass," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kiss of our life and grown-up love It was a great day for us all. We gathered in Mistress Machurtrie's parlor for a grand story-telling. Don Alvar sat by one side of the cheery hearth, with Mariposm at his feet.	then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seized my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning. I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordeaux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordeaux wrote a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hesged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would any promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faults with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so angry over the things she said of herself that she has never offered to help me with the book again.  Bug for all that it has been a sweet task. There were times when my heart bled, times when my blood chilled at remembrance, and times when the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I	Bee port from lands duty convey pilet reason to street a treet
The state of the s	In regard to the price of $6 cents. In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by pointing out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Caten ar Ye  (Furnished by W.  AMOUNT. BONDS. $65,500 Capital Traction 5's	whether he wins kicks.  Redd-Why, how Green-No, you s al swimmer. Your State Extended to Date.  B. Hibbs & Co.)  High.  110 110 12  R. 5's. 101 16  100 14  4's. 85  102  105 14  105 14	Low. 110 109% 9812 100% 8814 100 105	ES tor the Last. 110% 100% 101% 84 101% 105	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Roris, to leave you?  "Thank you, lass." I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvar—my grandfather?"  "Lass. I could almost think he is your father grown old.  "Oh:" she breathed, with a strange awe, "and you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistress Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn.  "I think I had better marry you," she said, quite seriously, "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to,"  "You dear, dear lass," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kiss of our life and grown-up love  It was a great day for us ail. We gathered in Mistress Macmurtrie's parlor for a grand story-telling. Don Alvar sat by one side of the cheery hearth, with Mariposn at his feet. Alexander Macmurtrie and his good wife were at the other side. In the	then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seized my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the heginning. I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordeaux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True. Bordeaux wrote a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hesged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would any promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faults with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so angry over the things she said of herself that she has never offered to help me with the book asadn.  Bug for all that it has been a sweet task. There were times when my heart task. There were times when the task. There were times when the task.	Bee port from lands duty convey pilet reason to street a treet
The state of the s	trict gas at one price of $5 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by noining out that the Washington compan, a contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Calen ar Ye  (Furnished by W.  AMOUNT. BONDS. $65,500 Capital Traction 5's	whether he wins kicks.  Redd-Why, how Green-No, you s al swimmer - Yonk  NGE OF  gton St. ck Extern to Date.  B. Hibbs & Co.)  High.  110½  R. 5's. 101%  100½  101½  4's. 85  102  105½  105½  105½  105½  103%	Low. 110 109% 981/2 1001/6 104 106 104 106 104 107 106 107 107 107 107 107 107 107 107 107 107	Last. 110% 100% 101% 84 101% 105 104% 105	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Rorie, to leave you?  "Thank you, lass," I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvar—my grandfather?"  "Lass, I could almost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh!" she breathed, with a strange awe,  "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you, must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn,  "I think I had better marry you," she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to."  "You dear, dear lass," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kiss of our life and grown-up love  It was a great day for us all. We gathered in Mistress Macmurtrie's parlor for a grand story-telling. Don Alvar sat by one side of the cheery hearth, with Mariposm at his feet. Alexander Macmurtrie and his good wife were at the other side. In the corper seat of the room sat Bordeaux, a gallant figure, between the delighted	then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seised my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning. I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordenux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordenux worde a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hesged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would any promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faults with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so angry over the things she said of herself that she has never offered to help me with the book again.  Bug for all that it has been a sweet task. There were times when my heart bied, times when my blood chilled at remembrance, and times when the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I fould not see what I was writing. The very dirk, you see, was lying on the table by my hand; and Mariposa, whom I had meant to kill with it, was sitting	Bee port from lands duty convey pilet reason to street a treet
the state of the s	In regard to the price of $\mathbb{E}$ cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by noining out that the Washington compan, is contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Caten ar Ye  (Furnished by W.  AMOUNT. BONDS. $65,500 Capital Traction 5's	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you sal swimmer. You's	Low. 110 109% 981/2 1001/4 1011/4 103 1011/4	Last. 110% 110% 100% 101% 105 103 101%	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Roris, to leave you?  "Thank you, lass." I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvar—my grandfather?"  "Lass. I could almost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh:" she breathed, with a strange awe, "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn.  "I think I had better marry you," she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to."  "You dear, dear lass," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kins of our life and grown-up love It was a great day for us all. We gathered in Mistress Macmurtrie's parlor for a grand story-telling. Don Alvar sat by one side of the cheery hearth, with Mariposa at his feet. Alexander Macmurtrie and his good wife were at the other side. In the corner seat of the room sat Bordeaux, a gailant figure, between the delighted Macmurtrie giris. I, as chief story-teller, set in the middle of the room, facing	two hundred voices shouted the hall; then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seised my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning. I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordeaux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordeaux wrote a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hesged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would any promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faults with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so angry over the things she said of herself that she has never offered to help me with the book again.  Bug for all that it has been a sweet task. There were times when my heart bled, times when my blood chilled at remembrance, and times when the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I could not see what I was writing. The very dirk, you see, was lying on the table by my hand; and Mariposa, whom	Bee port from lands duty convey pilet reason to street a treet
the state of the s	In regard to the price of $6 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by noining out that the Washington compan, 's contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Caten ar Ye  (Furnished by W.  AMOUNT. BONDS. $65,500 Capital Traction 5's	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you s al swimmer-Yonk  NGE OF  gton St.ck Extern to Date.  B. Hibbs & Co.)  High.  111  110½  8. 5's. 101  8. 103%  100%  101½  4's. 85  102  105¼  105¼  104  High.  High.  High.	Low. 110 109% 981/2 1001/4 103 1011/4 Low.	Last. 110% 100% 100% 101% 105 103 101% Last.	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Roris, to leave you?  "Thank you, lass," I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father-like Don Alvarmy grandfather?"  "Lass, I could almost think he is your father grown old." "Oh:" she breathed, with a strange awe, "and you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistress Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn.  "I think I had better marry you." she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to."  "You dear, dear leas," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kiss of our life and grown-up love  It was a great day for us all. We gathered in Mistress Macmurtrie's parlor for a grand story-telling. Don Alvar sat by one side of the cheery hearth, with Mariposa at his feet. Alexander Macmurtrie and his good wife were at the other side. In the corper seat of the room sat Bordeaux, a gallant figure, between the delighted Macmurtrie giris. I, as chief story-teller, set in the middle of the room, facing everybodly.  It was, as you know, a long story to	then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seised my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning. I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordeaux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordeaux wrote a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hesged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would any promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faulte with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so angry over the things she said of herself that she has never offered to help me with the book asaln.  But for all that it has been a sweet task. There were times when my heart bled, times when my blood chilled at remembrance, and times when the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I could not see what I was writing. The very dirk, you see, was lying on the table by my hand; and Mariposa, whom I had meant to kfill with it, was sitting by the castle hearth, sewing away for a little man who was to be called John Alvar.	Bee port from lands duty convey pilet reason to street a treet
the state of the s	In regard to the price of $\mathbb{E}$ cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by noinling out that the Washington compan, is contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Caten ar Ye  (Furnished by W.  AMOUNT. BONDS. $65,500 Capital Traction 5's	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you s al swimmer - Yonk  NGE OF  gton St. ck Exter to Date.  B. Hibbs & Co.) High. 110½ R. 5's. 101% 100½ 101½ 4's. 85 102 105¼ 105¼ 103 101½ High. 103 101½ High. 126	Low. 100 105 104 14 103 101 14 Low. 123 14	Last. 110% 110% 100% 101% 105 103 101% Last. 123%	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Roris, to leave you?  "Thank you, lass," I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvar—my grandfather?"  "Lass, I could almost think he is your father grown old." "Oh!" she breathed, with a strange awe.  "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn.  "I think I had better marry you." she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to."  "You dear, dear laste," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kiss of our life and grown-up love  It was a great day for us ail. We gathered in Mistress Macmurtrie's parlor for a grand story-telling. Don Alvar sat by one side of the cheery hearth, with Mariposm at his feet. Alexander Macmurtrie and his good wife were at the other side. In the corner seat of the room sat Bordeaux, a gallant figure, between the delighted Macmurtrie giris. I, as chief story-teller, set in the middle of the room, facing everybody.  It was, as you know, a long story to tell, beginning with the coming of the sheaning ship and my meeting with Don	then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seized my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning. I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordeaux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordeaux wrote a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hegged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would any promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faults with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so angry over the things she said of herself that she has never offered to help me with the book again.  Bug for all that it has been a sweet task. There were times when my heart bled, times when my blood chilled at remembrance, and times when the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I could not see what I was writing. The very dirk, you see, was lying on the table by my hand; and Mariposa, whom I had meant to kill with it, was sitting by the castle hearth, sewing away for a little man who was to be called John Alvar.  For as I said at the beginning—which is so long ago that you have probably in his so long ago that you have probably	Bee port from lands duty convey pilet reason to street a treet
the state of the s	In regard to the price of $\mathbb{E}$ cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by noinling out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Caten ar Ye  (Furnished by W.  AMOUNT. BONDS. $65,500 Capital Traction 5's	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you sal swimmer. You's sal swimmer. You sal sw	Low. 110 109% 981/2 1001/4 103 1011/4 Low.	Last. 110% 100% 100% 101% 105 103 101% Last.	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Roris, to leave you?"  "Thank you, lass," I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvar—my grandfather?"  "Lass, I could almost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh." she breathed, with a strange awe,  "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you, "we do," she said simply. "But you will makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn.  "I think I had better marry you," she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to."  "You dear, dear lass," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kiss of our life and grown-up love  It was a great day for us all. We gathered in Mistress Macmurtrie's parlor for a grand story-telling. Don Alvar sat by one side of the cheery hearth, with Mariposm at his feet. Alexander Macmurtrie and his good wife were at the other side. In the corner seat of the room sat Bordeaux, a gallant figure, between the delighted Macmurtrie girls. I, as chief story-teller, set in the middle of the room, facing everybody.  It was, as you know, a long story to tell, beginning with the coming of the Spanish ship and my meeting with Don John. You may be sure there were many parts I left out, for it was not	then the pipes shricked in time. Rod- erick Dow seised my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning, I am not yet free with the Bassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordenux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True. Bordenux wrote a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hesged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would any promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faults with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so angry over the things she said of herself that she has never offered to help me with the book asadn.  Bug for all that it has been a sweet task. There were times when my heart bled, times when my blood chilled at remembrance, and times when the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I could not see what I was writing. The very dirk, you see, was lying on the table by my hand; and Mariposa, whom I had neant to kill with it, was sitting by the castle hearth, sewing away for a little man who was to be called John Alvar, For, as I said at the beginning—which is so long ago that you have probably forgotten a peace has come upon Kil- elian Casth. We have lived in such	Bee port from lands duty convey pilet reason to street a treet
the state of the s	In regard to the price of $6 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by noining out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Caten ar Year (Furnished by W. AMOUNT.  BONDS.  $65,500 Capital Traction 5's.  10,500 Washington Gas 5's.  4,000 Anacostia & Potomac R. F.  1,000 City and Suburban R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 6's.  99,000 Washington Ry. & Electric 49,000 Potomac Electric Cons. 5's.  11,000 Potomac Electric Cons. 5's.  6,900 N. & W. Steamboat 5's.  11,000 C. & P. Telephone 5's.  36,500 Riggs Realty 5's (long)  2,000 Riggs Realty 5's (short).  SHARES.  STOCKS.  188 Capital Traction.  1,360 Washington Ry. & Electric c.  1,333 Washington Ry. & Electric c.  1,735 Washington Ry. & Electric c.	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you sal swimmer-Yonk  NGE OF  gton St. ck Extern to Date.  B. Hibbs & Co.)  High.  111  110½  8. 5's. 101  8. 103%  100¼  101½  4's. 85  102  105¼  105½  105¼  High.  101½  High.  126  0m. 88½  pfd. 91¼  86¼	Low. 100 105% 981/2 1001/4 1011/4 103 1011/4 103 1011/4 103 1011/4 103 1011/4 103 1011/4 103	Last. 110% 110% 98% 100% 101% 84 101% 105 103 101% 123% 86	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Roris, to leave you?"  "Thank you, lass." I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvar—my grandfather?"  "Lass. I could almost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh:" she breathed, with a strange awe, "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn, "I think I had better marry you," she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to."  "You dear, dear lass," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kiss of our life and grown-up love  It was a great day for us all. We gathered in Mistress Macmurtrie's parlor for a grand story-telling. Don Alvar sat by one side of the cheery hearth, with Mariposm at his feet. Alexander Macmurtrie and his good wife were at the other side. In the corner seat of the room sat Bordeaux, a gailant figure, between the delighted Macmurtrie giris. I, as chief story-tellier, set in the middle of the room, facing everybody.  It was, as you know, a long story to tell, beginning with the coming of the Spanish ship and my meeting with Don John. You may be sure there were many parts I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to an under-	then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seised my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning. I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordenux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordenux worde a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hegged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would any promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faults with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so angry over the things she said of herself that she has never offered to help me with the book again.  Bug for all that it has been a sweet task. There were times when my heart bied, times when my blood chilled at remembrance, and times when the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I could not see what I was writing. The very dirk, you see, was lying on the table by my hand; and Mariposa, whom I had meant to kill with it, was sitting by the castle hearth, sewing away for a little man who was to be called John Alvar.  For as I said at the beginning—which is so long ago that you have probably forgotten at peace has come upon Kilelian Castle. We have lived in such quiet happings—ever since the morning, when, after the great feast, Bordeaux when after the great feast, Bordeaux	Bee port from lands duty convey pilet reason to street a treet
the state of the s	In regard to the price of $6 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by noining out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Caten ar Year (Furnished by W. AMOUNT.  BONDS.  $65,500 Capital Traction 5's	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you sal swimmer-Yonk  NGE OF  gton St ck Example ar to Date.  B. Hibbs & Co.)  High.  111  110½  R. 5's. 101  's. 103¾  100¼  101½  4's. 85  102  105¼  105  105¼  High.  126  Om. 88½  pfd. 91¼  86¼  120	Low. 110 109% 981/2 100% 101% 884/2 103 1011/2 104 104 104 104 104 104 104 104 104 104	Last. 110% 110% 110% 110% 110% 110% 110% 110	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Roris, to leave you?  "Thank you, lass," I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father-like Den Alvarmy grandfather?"  "Lass, I could almost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh:" she breathed, with a strange a we, "and you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn.  "I think I had better marry you." she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to."  "You dear, dear lass," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kiss of our life and grown-up love  It was a great day for us all. We gathered in Mistress Macmurtrie's parlor for a grand story-telling. Don Alvar sat by one side of the cheery hearth, with Mariposa at his feet. Alexander Macmurtrie and his good wife were at the other side. In the corper seat of the room sat Bordeaux, a gallant figure, between the delighted Macmurtrie gris. I, as chief story-teller, set in the middle of the room, facing everybody.  It was a you know, a long story to tell, beginning with the coming of the Spanish ship and my meeting with Don John. You may be sure there were many parts I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to an understanding of the history, and there were many parts I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to an understanding of the history, and there were many parts I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to an understanding of the history, and there were	then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seized my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning. I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordeaux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordeaux worde a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hesged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would any promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faults with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so angry over the things she said of herself that she has never offered to help me with the book again.  Bug for all that it has been a sweet task. There were times when my heart bled, times when my blood chilled at remembrance, and times when the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I could never the lift with it, was sitting by the castle hearth, sewing away for a little man who was to be called John Alvar.  For as I said at the beginning—which is so long ago that you have probably forgotten a peace has come upon Kilelian Casth. We have lived in such quiet happiness—ever since the morning, when, after the great feast, Bordeaux and Masmurghie left us. I can still see these two friends as they were helped	Bee port from lands duty convey pilet reason to street a treet
the state of the s	In regard to the price of $6 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by noining out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Calen ar Year (Furnished by W. AMOUNT.  BONDS.  $65,500 Capital Traction 5's.  10,500 Washington Gas 5's.  4,000 Anacostia & Potomac R. F.  1,000 City and Suburban R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 6's.  99,000 Washington Ry. & Electric 49,000 Potomac Electric Cons. 5's.  11,000 Potomac Electric Cons. 5's.  6,900 N. & W. Steamboat 5's.  11,000 C. & P. Telephone 5's.  36,500 Riggs Realty 5's (long)  2,000 Riggs Realty 5's (short).  SHARES.  STOCKS.  188 Capital Traction.  1,360 Washington Ry. & Electric c.  1,333 Washington Ry. & Electric c.  1,735 Washington Ry. & Electric c.  1,735 Washington Gas.  50 Eastern Light & Fuel.  348 Lanston	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you sal swimmer-Yonk  NGE OF  gton St. ck Example ar to Date.  B. Hibbs & Co.)  High.  111  110½  8. 5's. 101  8. 103%  100¼  101½  4's. 85  102  105¼  105½  105½  105¼  High.  126  0m. 88½  pfd. 91¼  86¼  120  90	Low. 110 109% 981½ 1001% 101% 103 1011% 103 1011% 103 1011% 123 12 186 90 84 18 87 1/2	Last. 110% 100% 101% 84 101% 106 103 101% 86 90% 86 118 87½	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Roris, to leave you?"  "Thank you, lass." I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvar—my grandfather?"  "Lass. I could almost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh." she breathed, with a strange awe, "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn.  "I think I had better marry you." she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to."  "You dear, dear lass," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kiss of our life and grown-up love  It was a great day for us all. We gathered in Mistress Machurtrie's parlor for a grand story-telling. Don Alvar sat by one side of the cheery hearth, with Mariposm at his feet. Alexander Macmurtrie and his good wife were at the other side. In the corner seat of the room sat Bordeaux, a gallant figure, between the delighted Macmurtrie girls. I, as chief story-tell-beyners in the middle of the room, facing everybody.  It was, as you know, a long story to tell, beginning with the coming of the Spanish ship and my meeting with Don John. You may be sure there were many purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to an understanding of the history, and there were bits in which I did not figure well my-	then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seised my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning, I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordeaux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordeaux wrote a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hosged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would any promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faults with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so angry over the things she said of herself that she has never offered to help me with the book agadn.  Bug for all that it has been a sweet task. There were times when my heart toled, times when my blood chilled at remembrance, and times when the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I could not see what I was writing. The very dirk, you see, was lying on the table by my hand; and Mariposa, whom I had meant to bill with it, was sitting by the castle hearth, sewing away for a little man who was to be called John Alvar.  For, as I said at the beginning—which is so long ago that you have probably forgotten a peace has come upon Kilelian Castle. We have lived in such quiet happiness—ever since the inorning, which, after the great feast, Bordeaux and Margunurfize left us. I can still see those two friends as they were help	Bee port from lands duty convey pilet reason to street a treet
the state of the s	In regard to the price of $6 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by noining out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Caten ar Year (Furnished by W. AMOUNT.  BONDS.  $65,500 Capital Traction 5's.  10,500 Washington Gas 5's.  4,000 Anacostia & Potomac R. F.  1,000 City and Suburban R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 6's.  99,000 Washington Ry. & Electric 49,000 Potomac Electric Cons. 5's.  11,000 Potomac Electric 5's.  6,900 N. & W. Steamboat 5's.  11,000 C. & P. Telephone 5's.  36,500 Riggs Realty 5's (long).  2,000 Riggs Realty 5's (short).  SHARES. STOCKS.  188 Capital Traction.  1,360 Washington Ry. & Electric cons.  1,333 Washington Ry. & Electric cons.  1,348 Lanston.  333 Mergenthaler	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you sal swimmer - Yonk  NGE OF  gton St ck Example Exam	Low. 110 109% 981½ 100% 101% 103 101¼ Low. 123½ 86 90 84¼ 118 87½ 217	Last. 110% 98% 100% 101% 105 103 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Roris, to leave you?"  "Thank you, lass." I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvar—my grandfather?"  "Lass. I could almost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh:" she breathed, with a strange awe, "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn.  "I think I had better marry you." she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to."  "You dear, dear lass," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kiss of our life and grown-up love  It was a great day for us all. We gathered in Mistress Machurtrie's parlor for a grand story-telling. Don Alvar sat by one side of the cheery hearth, with Mariposa at his feet. Alexander Macmurtrie and his good wife were at the other side. In the corner seat of the room sat Bordeaux, a gallant figure, between the delighted Macmurtrie giris. I, as chief story-teller, set in the middle of the room, facing everybody.  It was, as you know, a long story to tell, beginning with the coming of the Spanish ship and my meeting with Don John. You may be sure there were many parts I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to an understanding of the history, and there were hits in which I did not figure well my-self. As to that, Bordeaux came to the rescue when the story had progressed as far as Maripeza's capture by the	then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seized my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning. I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordenux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordenux worde a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hegged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would any promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faults with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so angry over the things she said of herself that she has never offered to help me with the book again.  Bug for all that it has been a sweet task. There were times when my heart bied, times when my blood chilled at remembrance, and times when the ears of my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I could not see what I was writing. The very dirk, you see, was lying on the table by my hand; and Mariposa, whom I had meant to kill with it, was sitting by the castle hearth, sewing away for a little man who was to be called John Alvar.  For as I said at the beginning—which is so long ago that you have probably forgotten at peace has come upon Kilelian Castle. We have lived in such quiet happing ss—ever since the morning, when, after the great feast, Bordeaux and Masmurfrie left us. I can still see these two friends as they were helped into the boat. I can see the little lawyer solemnly offering snuff to our serving-man, goderick, and I can see Bordeevy starbiling erect—but a little	Bee port from lands duty convey plish reason decis land a tree to the tariff from in Q facto sendito the lands and l
the states where the states and states and the states are the states and the states are the states and the states are the stat	In regard to the price of $6 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by noining out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Caten ar Year (Furnished by W. AMOUNT.  BONDS. $65,500 Capital Traction 5's.  10,500 Washington Gas 5's.  4,000 Anacostia & Potomac R. F.  1,000 City and Suburban R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 6's.  99,000 Washington Ry. & Electric 49,000 Potomac Electric Cons. 5's.  11,000 Potomac Electric 5's.  6,900 N. & W. Steamboat 5's.  11,000 C. & P. Telephone 5's.  36,500 Riggs Realty 5's (long).  2,000 Biggs Realty 5's (short).  SHARES. STOCKS.  188 Capital Traction.  1,360 Washington Ry. & Electric cons.  1,333 Washington Ry. & Electric cons.  1,334 Washington Ry. & Electric cons.  50 Eastern Light & Fuel.  348 Lanston.  333 Mergenthaler	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you sal swimmer-Yonk  NGE OF  gton St. ck Example ar to Date.  B. Hibbs & Co.)  High.  111  110½  8. 5's. 101  8. 103%  100½  4's. 85  102  105½  105½  105½  103  101½  High.  126  0m. 88½  pfd. 91¼  86½  120  90  220  207	Low. 110 109% 981½ 1001% 101% 103 1011% 103 1011% 103 1011% 123 12 186 90 84 18 87 1/2	Last. 110% 100% 101% 84 101% 106 103 101% 86 90% 86 118 87½	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Roris, to leave you?"  "Thank you, lass." I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad." she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvar—my grandfather?"  "Lass. I could almost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh:" she breathed, with a strange awe, "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistress Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn.  "I think I had better marry you," she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to."  "You dear, dear lass," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kiss of our life and grown-up love  It was a great day for us ail. We gathered in Mistress Macmurtrie's parlor for a grand story-telling. Don Alvar sat by one side of the cheery hearth, with Mariposn at his feet. Alexander Macmurtrie and his good wife were at the other side. In the corner seat of the room sat Bordeaux, a gallant figure, between the delighted Macmurtrie gris. I, as chief story-tellier, set in the middle of the room, facing everybody.  It was a you know, a long story to tell, beginning with the coming of the Spanish ship and my meeting with Don John. You may be sure there were many parts I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to an understanding of the history, and there were bits in which I did not figure well my-self. As to that, Bordeaux came to the rescue when the story had progressed as far as Maripeza's capture by the Macdonald.  It was fine to hear Bordeaux's elocuence sine out. He had a wonderful	then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seized my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew them that he had been a good friend to me, as he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning. I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordeaux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordeaux worde a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hesged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would any promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faults with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so angry over the things she said of herself that she has never offered to help me with the book again.  Bug for all that it has been a sweet task. There were times when my heart bled, times when my blood chilled at remembrance, and times when the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I could not see what I was writing. The very dirk, you see, was lying on the table by my shame; and Mariposa, whom I had meant to bill with it, was sitting by the castle hearth, sewing away for a little man who was to be called John Alvar.  For as I said at the beginning—which is so long ago that you have probably forgotten a peace has come upon Kilelian Castil. We have lived in such quiet happiness—ever since the morning, when, after the great feast, Bordeaux and Masmurgie left us. I can still see those two friends as they were helped into the boat. I can see the little lawyer solemnly offering sout to our serving-man, wooderick, and I can see Bordeaux starthing erect—but a little unsteadily—waving his bonnet and cry-in	Bee port from lands duty convey pileth reason to the tariff from lin Q facto sendil to the line of the
the states where the states and states and the states are the states and the states are the states and the states are the stat	In regard to the price of $6 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by noinling out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Caten ar Year (Furnished by W. AMOUNT.  BONDS. $65,500 Capital Traction 5's.  10,500 Washington Gas 5's.  4,000 Anacostia & Potomac R. F.  1,000 City and Suburban R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 6's.  99,000 Washington Ry. & Electric 49,000 Potomac Electric Cons. 5's.  11,000 Potomac Electric 5's.  6,900 N. & W. Steamboat 5's.  11,000 C. & P. Telephone 5's.  36,500 Riggs Realty 5's (long).  2,000 Biggs Realty 5's (short).  SHARES. STOCKS.  188 Capital Traction.  1,360 Washington Ry. & Electric cons.  1,333 Washington Ry. & Electric cons.  1,345 Washington Ry. & Electric cons.  1,355 Washington Ry. & Electric cons.  348 Lanston.  348 Lanston.  349 Mergenthaler  806 Commercial National Bank 161 United States Trust.  375 Union Trust.	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you sal swimmer-Yonk  NGE OF  gton St. ck Example ar to Date.  B. Hibbs & Co.)  High.  111  110½  8. 5's. 101  8. 103%  100½  4's. 85  102  105¼  105  105½  104  High.  105  105½  104  High.  126  000. 88½  pfd. 91¼  86½  120  90  220  207  141  139	Low. 110 109% 981½ 100% 101% 88½ 100 105 104½ 103% 101¼ 103% 101¼ 103% 101½ 104½ 103 101½ 104½ 103 101½ 104½ 103 101½ 104½ 103 101½ 104½ 103 101½ 104½ 103 101½ 104½ 103 101½ 104½ 103 101½ 104½ 103 101½ 104½ 103 101½ 104½ 103 101½ 104½ 103 101½ 104½ 103 101½ 104½ 103 101½ 104½ 103 101½ 104½ 103 101½ 104½ 103 101½ 104½ 103 101½ 104½ 104½ 104½ 104½ 104½ 104½ 104½	Last. 110% 98% 100% 101% 105 103 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Roris, to leave you?  "Thank you, lass," I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvar—my grandfather?"  "Lass, I could almost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh!" she breathed, with a strange awe.  "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn.  "I think I had better marry you." she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to."  "You dear, dear lass," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kiss of our life and grown-up love  It was a great day for us ail. We gathered in Mistress Macmurtrie's parlor for a grand story-telling. Don Alvar sat by one side of the cheery hearth, with Mariposm at his feet. Alexander Macmurtrie and his good wife were at the other side. In the corner seat of the room sat Bordeaux, a gallant figure, between the delighted Macmurtrie giris. I, as chief story-teller, set in the middle of the room, facing everybody.  It was, as you know, a long story to tell, beginning with the coming of the Spanish ship and my meeting with Don John. You may be sure there were many parts I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to an understanding of the history, and there were many parts I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to an understanding of the history, and there were many parts I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to an understanding of the history, and there were many parts I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old	then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seised my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning. I am not yet free with the Bassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordeaux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True. Bordeaux worde a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hesged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would any promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faults with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so angry over the things she said of herself that she has never offered to help me with the book asadn.  Bug for all that it has been a sweet task. There were times when my heart bled, times when my blood chilled at remembrance, and times when the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I could not see what I was writing. The very dirk, you see, was lying on the table by my hand; and Mariposa, whom I had neant to kill with it, was sitting by the castle hearth, sewing away for a little man who was to be called John Alvar.  For as I said at the beginning—which is so long ago that you have probably forgotten a peace has come upon Kilelian Casta. We have lived in such quiet happiness—ever since the morning, when, after the great feast, Bordeaux and Masmurfrie left us. I can still see these two friends as they were helped into the boat. I can see the little law-yer solemnly offering snuff to our serving-man, Eoderick, and I can see Bordeaux starkling erect—but a little unsteadily—waving his bonnet and cry-in	Bee port from lands duty convey plish reason decis land a tree to the tariff from in Q facto sendito the lands and lands and lands and lands and lands are the lands and lands are the lands and lands are the lands
the states where the states and states and the states are the states and the states are the states and the states are the stat	trict gas at one price of $6 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by noining out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Caten ar Yearn ar Yearn Andount.  BONDS. $65,500 Capital Traction 5's.  10,500 Washington Gas 5's.  4,000 Anacostia & Potomac R. F. 1,000 City and Suburban R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 6's.  99,000 Washington Ry. & Electric 49,000 Potomac Electric Cons. 5's.  11,000 Potomac Electric 5's.  6,900 N. & W. Steamboat 5's.  11,000 C. & P. Telephone 5's.  36,500 Riggs Realty 5's (long).  2,000 Biggs Realty 5's (short).  SHARES. STOCKS.  188 Capital Traction.  1,360 Washington Ry. & Electric cons.  1,333 Washington Ry. & Electric cons.  1,334 Washington Ry. & Electric cons.  50 Eastern Light & Fuel.  348 Lanston.  333 Mergenthaler  806 Commercial National Bank 161 United States Trust.  375 Union Trust.  60 Citizeps' Savings Bank.	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you sal swimmer-Yonk  NGE OF  gton St. ck Except to Date.  B. Hibbs & Co.)  High.  111  110½  8. 5's. 101  101½  4's. 85  102  105¼  105¼  105¼  106  105¼  High.  126  0m. 88½  pfd. 91¼  High.  126  90  220  207  141  139	Low. 110 109% 88½ 100 105 104½ 103 101½ 104½ 108 86 90 84½ 118 87½ 116 137 136% 21	Last. 110% 100% 101% 105 104% 105 103 101% 105 104% 105 103 101% 105 103 103 103 103 103 103 103 103 103 103	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Rorie, to leave you?"  "Thank you, lass," I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvar—my grandfather?"  "Lass, I could almost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh!" she breathed, with a strange awe, "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do." she said simply. "But you, must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribiy solemn, "I think I had better marry you." she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to."  "You dear, dear lass," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kiss of our life and grown-up love  It was a great day for us all. We gathered in Mistress Macmurtrie's parlor for a grand story-telling. Don Alvar sat by one side of the cheery hearth, with Mariposm at his feet. Alexander Macmurtrie and his good wife were at the other side. In the corner seat of the room sat Bordeaux, a gailant figure, between the delighted Macmurtrie girls. I, as chief story-tell-er, set in the middle of the room, facing everybody.  It was, as you know, a long story to tell, beginning with the coming of the Spanish ship and my meeting with Don John. You may be sure there were many parts I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to an understanding of the history, and there were bits in which I did not figure well myself. As to that, Bordeaux came to the rescue when the story had progressed as far as Maripesa's capture by the Macdonald.  It was fine to hear Bordeaux's eloquence ring out. He had a wonderful gift of telling a tale, but although everybody was spellbound, my foolish heart was pleaged to note how he praised me, and heart was	then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seised my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning. I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordenux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordenux worde a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hesged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would any promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faults with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so angry over the things she said of herself that she has never offered to help me with the book again.  Bug for all that it has been a sweet task. There were times when my heart bied, times when my blood chilled at remembrance, and times when the task of my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I could not see what I was writing. The very dirk, you see, was lying on the table by my hand; and Mariposa, whom I had meant to kill with it, was sitting by the castle hearth, sewing away for a little man who was to be called John Alvar.  For as I said at the beginning—which is so long ago that you have probably forgotten at peace has come upon Kilelian Castle. We have lived in such quiet happing ss—ever since the morning, when, after the great feast, Bordeaux and Masmurfrie left us. I can still see these two friends as they were helped into the boat. I can see the little lawyer solemnly offering snuff to our serving-man, Eoderick, and I can see Bordeeux starkling erect—but a little unsteadily—waving his bonnet and eryin	Bee port from lands duty convey pileth reason to the tariff from lin Q facto sendil to the line of the
the states where the states and states and the states are the states and the states are the states and the states are the stat	In regard to the price of $6 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by noining out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Caten ar Yearn ar Yearn Andount.  BONDS. $65,500 Capital Traction 5's.  10,500 Washington Gas 5's.  4,000 Anacostia & Potomac R. F. 1,000 City and Suburban R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 6's.  99,000 Washington Ry. & Electric 49,000 Potomac Electric Cons. 5's.  11,000 Potomac Electric 5's.  6,900 N. & W. Steamboat 5's.  11,000 C. & P. Telephone 5's.  36,500 Riggs Realty 5's (long).  2,000 Riggs Realty 5's (short).  SHARES. STOCKS.  188 Capital Traction.  1,360 Washington Ry. & Electric collisions.  348 Lanston.  348 Lanston.  348 Lanston.  349 Commercial National Bank.  350 Citizeps' Savings Bank.  360 Citizeps' Savings Bank.  371 American National Bank.	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you sal swimmer-Yonk  NGE OF  gton St. ck Except to Date.  B. Hibbs & Co.)  High.  111  110½  8. 5's. 101  8. 103%  100½  101½  4's. 85  102  105¼  105  105½  103  101½  High.  126  000. 88½  pfd. 91¼  86¼  120  90  220  207  141  139  21  173	Low. 110 109% 88½ 100 105 104½ 103 101½ 104 108 118 86 90 84½ 118 87½ 1170 118 118 87½ 1170 118 118 87½ 1170 118 118 87½ 1170 118 118 87½ 1170 118 118 87½ 1170 118 118 87½ 1170 118 118 87½ 1170 1170 1170 1170 1170 1170 1170 11	Last. 110% 100% 101% 105 104% 105 103% 101% 105 104% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103 101% 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Rorie, to leave you?"  "Thank you, lass," I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvar—my grandfather?"  "Lass, I could simost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh!" she breathed, with a strange awe, "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do." she said simply. "But you, must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn, "I think I had better marry you." she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to."  "You dear, dear lass," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kiss of our life and grown-up love  It was a great day for us all. We gathered in Mistress Macmurtrie's parlor for a grand story-telling. Don Alvar sat by one side of the cheery hearth, with Mariposm at his feet. Alexander Macmurtrie and his good wife were at the other side. In the corner seat of the room sat Bordeaux, a gailant figure, between the delighted Macmurtrie giris. I, as chief story-tell-er, set in the middle of the room, facing everybody.  It was, as you know, a long story to tell, beginning with the coming of the Spanish ship and my meeting with Don John. You may be sure there were many parts I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to an understanding of the history and there were bits in which I did not figure well myself. As to that, Bordeaux came to the rescue when the story had progressed as far as Maripesa's capture by the Macdonald.  It was fine to hear Bordeaux's eloquence ring out. He had a wonderful gift of telling a tale, but although everybody was spellbound, my foolish heart was pleaged to note how he praised me, and how Maripo	then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seined my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew them that he had been a good friend to me, as he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning. I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordenux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordenux worde a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hesged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would any promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faulte with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so angry over the things she said of herself that she has never offered to help me with the book again.  But for all that it has been a sweet task. There were times when my heart bled, times when my blood chilled at remembrance, and times when the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I could not see what I was writing. The very cirk, you see, was lying on the table by my hand; and Mariposa, whom I had meant to kfill with it, was sitting by the castle hearth, sewing away for a little man who was to be called John Alvar.  For, as I said at the beginning—which is so long ago that you have probably forgotten a peace has come upon Kilelian Castil. We have lived in such quiet happiness—ever since the inorming, when, after the great feast, Bordeaux and Masmurfrie left us. I can still see those two friends as they were helped into the boat. I can see the little lawyer solemnly offering snuff to our serving-man. Eoderick, and I can see Bordeaux starbling erect—but a little unsteadily—waving his bonnet and cry	Bee port from lands duty convey plish reason decis Mac on the tariff from lin Q factor and tariff from l
The special section with the section of the section	trict gas at one price of $6 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by noining out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Caten ar Yearn ar Yearn Andount.  BONDS. $65,500 Capital Traction 5's.  10,500 Washington Gas 5's.  4,000 Anacostia & Potomac R. F. 1,000 City and Suburban R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 6's.  99,000 Washington Ry. & Electric 49,000 Potomac Electric Cons. 5's.  11,000 Potomac Electric 5's.  6,900 N. & W. Steamboat 5's.  11,000 C. & P. Telephone 5's.  36,500 Riggs Realty 5's (long).  2,000 Riggs Realty 5's (short).  SHARES. STOCKS.  188 Capital Traction.  1,360 Washington Ry. & Electric collisions.  1,361 Washington Ry. & Electric collisions.  1,362 Washington Ry. & Electric collisions.  363 Washington Ry. & Electric collisions.  364 Lanston.  365 Eastern Light & Fuel.  366 Commercial National Bank.  375 Union Trust.  375 Union Trust.  375 Union Trust.  375 Union Trust.  376 Chapin-Sacks.	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you sal swimmer-Yonk  NGE OF  gton St ck Except to Date.  B. Hibbs & Co.)  High.  111  110½  8 5's. 101  101½  4's. 85  102  105¼  105¼  105¼  105  105¼  106  105¼  108  109  220  207  141  139  21  173  161	Low. 110 105 104 101 103 101 14 103 101 11 103 101 101 101 101 101 101	Last. 110% 101% 105 104% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Roris, to leave you?"  "Thank you, lass," I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvarmy grandfather?"  "Lass, I could almost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh:" she breathed, with a strange awe, "and you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn.  "I think I had better marry you." she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to."  "You dear, dear lass," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kiss of our life and grown-up love  It was a great day for us ail. We gathered in Mistress Macmurtrie's parlor for a grand story-telling. Don Alvar sat by one side of the cheery hearth, with Mariposm at his feet. Alexander Macmurtrie and his good wife were at the other side. In the corper seat of the room sat Bordeaux, a gallant figure, between the delighted Macmurtrie girls. I, as chief story-teller, set in the middle of the room, facing everybody.  It was, as you know, a long story to tell, beginning with the coming of the Spanish ship and my meeting with Don John. You may be sure there were many parts I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to an understanding of the history, and there were many parts I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to an understanding of the history, and there were many parts I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to an understanding of the history, and there were many parts I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old g	two hundred voices shouted the hall; then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seised my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew them that he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning. I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordeaux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordeaux wrote a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hesged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would any promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faults with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so angry over the things she said of herself that she has never offered to help me with the book again.  Bug for all that it has been a sweet task. There were times when my heart bled, times when my blood chilled at remembrance, and times when the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I could not see what I was writing. The very dirk, you see, was lying on the table by my hand; and Mariposa, whom I had meant to kill with it, was sitting by the castle hearth, sewing away for a little man who was to be called John Alvar.  For as I said at the beginning—which is so long ago that you have probably forgotten a peace has come upon Kilelian Castle. We have lived in such quiet happiness—ever since the morning, when, after the great feast, Bordeaux and Masmurfrie left us. I can still see those two friends as thoy were helped into the boat. I can see the little law-yer solemnly offering sauft to our serving-man, goderick, and I can see Bordeaux starkling erect—but a little unsteadily—waving his bonnet and cryl	Per port from land duty convey plish reason decis Mace not a time from lin Q factor aendit to the line of the line
The special of the state of the special special of the special of the special special of the special of	trict gas at one price of $6 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by noining out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Caien ar Yearn ar Yearn Amount.  BONDS. $65,500 Capital Traction 5's.  10,500 Washington Gas 5's.  4,000 Anacostia & Potomac R. F. 1,000 City and Suburban R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 6's.  99,000 Washington Ry. & Electric 49,000 Potomac Electric Cons. 5's.  11,000 Potomac Electric 5's.  6,900 N. & W. Steamboat 5's.  11,000 C. & P. Telephone 5's.  36,500 Riggs Realty 5's (long).  2,000 Riggs Realty 5's (short).  SHARES. STOCKS.  188 Capital Traction.  1,360 Washington Ry. & Electric cons.  1,360 Washington Ry. & Electric cons.  1,360 Washington Ry. & Electric cons.  348 Lanston.  333 Washington Gas.  50 Eastern Light & Fuel.  348 Lanston.  333 Mergenthaler  806 Commercial National Bank  161 United States Trust  375 Union Trust.  60 Citizeps' Savings Bank.  73 American National Bank  10 Chapin-Sacks	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you sal swimmer-Yonk  NGE OF  gton St ck Except to Date.  B. Hibbs & Co.)  High.  111  110½  8 5's. 101  101½  105½  105½  105½  105½  105½  105½  105½  105½  103  101½  High.  126  000. 88½  pfd. 91¼  86¼  120  90  220  207  141  139  21  173  161  585	Low. 110 109% 88½ 100 105 104½ 103 101½ 104 108 118 86 90 84½ 118 87½ 1170 118 118 87½ 1170 118 118 87½ 1170 118 118 87½ 1170 118 118 87½ 1170 118 118 87½ 118 118 87½ 1170 118 118 87½ 1170 1170 1170 1170 1170 1170 1170 11	Last. 110% 110% 110% 110% 110% 110% 100% 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Rorie, to leave you?"  "Thank you, lass." I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad." she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvar—my grandfather?"  "Lass. I could almost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh!" she breathed, with a strange awe.  "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you, must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn, "I think I had better marry you," she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to."  "You dear, dear lass," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kins of our life and grown-up love. It was a great day for us all. We gathered in Mistress Macmurtie's parlor for a grand story-telling. Don Alvar sat by one side of the cheery hearth, with Mariposm at his feet. Alexander Macmurtie and his good wife were at the other side. In the corper seat of the room sat Bordeaux, a gallant figure, between the delighted Macmurtie girls. I, as chief story-teller, set in the middle of the room, facing everybody.  It was, as you know, a long story to tell, beginning with the coming of the Spanish ship and my meeting with Don John. You may be sure there were many par's I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to an underfugit of telling a tale, but although everybody was spellbound, my foolish heart was pleaged to note how he preised me, and how Mariposa would grane up at her grandfather, as if 10 seek his approval of me.  Amid ar exciting whirl of events Bordeaux carried us into Glasgow. Then and her grandfather, as if 10 seek his approval of me.	then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seized my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew them that he had been a good friend to me, as he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning. I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordeaux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordeaux worde a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hesged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would any promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faults with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so angry over the things she said of herself that she has never offered to help me with the book again.  Bug for all that it has been a sweet task. There were times when my heart bled, times when my blood chilled at remembrance, and times when the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I could not see what I was writing. The very dirk, you see, was lying on the table by my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I could not see what I was writing. The very dirk, you see, was lying on the table by my shame; and Mariposa, whom I had meant to bill with it, was sitting by the castle hearth, sewing away for a little man who was to be called John Alvar.  For as I said at the beginning—which is so long ago that you have probably forgotten a peace has come upon Kilelian Castil. We have lived in such quiet happiness—ever since the morning, when, after the great feast, Bordeaux and Masmurgie left us. I can still see these two frends as they were helped into t	Per port from land duty convey plish reason decis Mace not a time from lin Q factor aendit to the line of the line
The state of the s	In regard to the price of $\frac{1}{6}$ cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by nointing out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year    SALES AND RA	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you sal swimmer. Your sal swimmer. You sal s	Low. 110 109% 101% 100% 101% 100% 101% 100% 101% 10	Last. 110% 100% 101% 105 104% 105 103 101% 105 104% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Rorie, to leave you?  "Thank you, lass." I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad." she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvar—my grandfather?"  "Lass. I could almost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh!" she breathed, with a strange awe, "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn.  "I think I had better marry you." she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to."  "You dear, dear lass," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kiss of our life and grown-up love  It was a great day for us all. Wo gathered in Mistress Machurtrie's parlor for a grand story-telling. Don Alvar sat by one side of the cheery hearth, with Mariposa at his feet. Alexander Macmurtrie and his good wife were at the other side. In the corper seat of the room sat Bordeaux, a gailant figure, between the delighted Macmurtrie gris. I, as chief story-tellier, set in the middle of the room, facing everybody.  It was, as you know, a long story to tell, beginning with the coming of the Spanish ship and my meeting with Don John. You may be sure there were many parts I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to an understanding of the history, and there were many parts I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to an understanding of the history, and there were many parts I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to an understanding of the history, and there were wish must took up the history in a more prosaic fashion. He explai	two hundred voices shouted the hall; then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seized my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew them that he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning. I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way. Bordeaux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordeaux wrote a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hegged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would ay promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faults with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so angry over the things she said of herself that she has never offered to help me with the book again.  Bug for all that it has been a sweet task. There were times when my heart bied, times when my blood chilled at remembrance, and times when the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I could not see what I was writing. The very clirk, you see, was lying on the table by my hand; and Mariposa, whom I had meant to kill with it, was sitting by the castle hearth, sewing away for a little man who was to be called John Alvar.  For as I said at the beginning—which is so long ago that you have probably forgotten at peace has come upon Killian Castle. We have lived in such gulet happiness—ever since the morning, when, after the great feast, Bordeaux and Masmurptie left us. I can still see those two friends as they were helped into the boat. I can see the little law-yer solemnly offering snuff to our serving-man, goderick, and I can see Bordeaux staribing erect—but a little unsteadily—waving his bonnet and cryi	Fo Cal
16 15 15 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16 16	trict gas at one price of $6 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by notning out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year   SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Caten at Ye  (Furnished by W.  AMOUNT. BONDS. $65,500 Capital Traction 5's.  10,500 Washington Gas 5's.  4,000 Anacostia & Potomac R. F. 1,000 City and Suburban R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 6's.  99,000 Washington Ry. & Electric 49,000 Potomac Electric Cons. 5's.  11,000 Potomac Electric 5's.  6,900 N. & W. Steamboat 5's.  11,000 C. & P. Telephone 5's.  36,500 Riggs Realty 5's (long).  2,000 Riggs Realty 5's (short).  SHARES. STOCKS.  188 Capital Traction.  1,360 Washington Ry. & Electric c. 1,333 Washington Ry. & Electric c. 1,333 Washington Ry. & Electric c. 1,355 Washington Gas.  50 Eastern Light & Fuel.  348 Lanston.  333 Mergenthaler  806 Commercial National Bank.  161 United States Trust  375 Union Trust.  60 Citizeps' Savings Bank.  73 American National Bank.  5 Union Savings Bank.  1 Lincoln National Bank.  5 Union Savings Bank.  1 Lincoln National Bank.  5 Union Savings Bank.  1 Lincoln National Bank.  7 Washington Loan & Trust.	whether he wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you sal swimmer-Yonk  NGE OF  gton St. ck Example ar to Date.  B. Hibbs & Co.)  High.  111  110½  8. 5's. 101  8. 103%  100¼  4's. 85  102  105¼  105¼  105¼  105½  105½  105½  101½  High.  126  000 88½  pfd 91¼  86¼  120  90  220  207  141  139  21  173  161  585  246  152  240	Low. 110 109% 98½ 103% 100% 101% 88½ 100 105 104½ 104½ 103 101½ 104½ 103 101½ 104½ 105 104½ 105 105 104½ 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105	Last. 110% 105% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Rorie, to leave you?  "Thank you, lass." I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad." she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvar—my grandfather?"  "Lass. I could almost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh!" she breathed, with a strange awe, "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn.  "I think I had better marry you." she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to."  "You dear, dear lass," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kiss of our life and grown-up love  It was a great day for us all. Wo gathered in Mistress Machurtrie's parlor for a grand story-telling. Don Alvar sat by one side of the cheery hearth, with Mariposa at his feet. Alexander Macmurtrie and his good wife were at the other side. In the corper seat of the room sat Bordeaux, a gailant figure, between the delighted Macmurtrie gris. I, as chief story-tellier, set in the middle of the room, facing everybody.  It was, as you know, a long story to tell, beginning with the coming of the Spanish ship and my meeting with Don John. You may be sure there were many parts I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to an understanding of the history, and there were many parts I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to an understanding of the history, and there were many parts I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to an understanding of the history, and there were wish must took up the history in a more prosaic fashion. He explai	two hundred voices shouted the hall; then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seized my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew them that he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning. I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way. Bordeaux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordeaux wrote a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hegged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would ay promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faults with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so angry over the things she said of herself that she has never offered to help me with the book again.  Bug for all that it has been a sweet task. There were times when my heart bied, times when my blood chilled at remembrance, and times when the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I could not see what I was writing. The very clirk, you see, was lying on the table by my hand; and Mariposa, whom I had meant to kill with it, was sitting by the castle hearth, sewing away for a little man who was to be called John Alvar.  For as I said at the beginning—which is so long ago that you have probably forgotten at peace has come upon Killian Castle. We have lived in such gulet happiness—ever since the morning, when, after the great feast, Bordeaux and Masmurptie left us. I can still see those two friends as they were helped into the boat. I can see the little law-yer solemnly offering snuff to our serving-man, goderick, and I can see Bordeaux staribing erect—but a little unsteadily—waving his bonnet and cryi	Fo Cal
Senior	trict gas at one price of $6 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by notning out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year   SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Caten at Ye  (Furnished by W.  AMOUNT. BONDS. $65,500 Capital Traction 5's.  10,500 Washington Gas 5's.  4,000 Anacostia & Potomac R. F. 1,000 City and Suburban R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 6's.  99,000 Washington Ry. & Electric 49,000 Potomac Electric Cons. 5's.  11,000 Potomac Electric 5's.  6,900 N. & W. Steamboat 5's.  11,000 C. & P. Telephone 5's.  36,500 Riggs Realty 5's (long).  2,000 Riggs Realty 5's (short).  SHARES. STOCKS.  188 Capital Traction.  1,360 Washington Ry. & Electric c. 1,333 Washington Ry. & Electric c. 1,333 Washington Ry. & Electric c. 1,334 Washington Ry. & Electric c. 1,335 Washington Ry. & Electric c. 1,337 Washington Ry. & Electric c. 1,338 Washington Ry. & Electric c. 1,339 Washington Ry. & Electric c. 1,348 Lanston.  333 Mergenthaler  806 Commercial National Bank.  50 Citizeps' Savings Bank.  345 Union Trust.  600 Citizeps' Savings Bank.  357 Union Savings Bank.  367 Washington Loan & Trust.  578 Washington Loan & Trust.  579 Washington Loan & Trust.  570 Washington Loan & Trust.  571 Washington Loan & Trust.  572 Washington Loan & Trust.  573 Washington Loan & Trust.  574 Washington Loan & Trust.  575 Washington Loan & Trust.  576 Washington Loan & Trust.  577 Washington Loan & Trust.  578 Washington Loan & Trust.  579 Washington Loan & Trust.  570 Washington Loan & Trust.  571 Washington Loan & Trust.  572 Washington Loan & Trust.  573 Washington Loan & Trust.	whether be wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you sal swimmer-Yonk  NGE OF  gton St. ck Example ar to Date.  B. Hibbs & Co.)  High.  111  110½  8. 5's. 101  8. 103%  100½  4's. 85  102  105½  105½  105½  105½  105½  101½  High.  126  000. 88½  pfd. 91¼  86¼  120  90  220  207  141  139  21  173  161  585  246  152  240  7	Low. 110 109% 981/2 100% 101% 884/2 100 105 1041/2 1041/2 104 103 1011/2 1041/2 106 118 871/2 217 196 137 136% 21 170 161 585 246 152 240 7	Last. 110% 110% 100% 101% 84 101% 105 103 101% 86 108 87 12 218 202 140 137 21 170 161 585 246 152 240 7	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Rorie, to leave you?"  "Thank you, lass," I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father-like Don Alvarmy grandfather?"  "Lass, I could almost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh." she breathed, with a strange awe.  "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking downinto her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn.  "I think I had better marry you." she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to."  "You dear, dear lass," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kiss of our life and grown-up love  It was a great day for us all. We gathered in Mistress Macmurtrie's parlor for a grand story-telling. Don Alvar sat by one side of the cheery hearth, with Mariposm at his feet. Alexander Macmurtrie and his good wife were at the other side. In the corner seat of the room sat Bordeaux, a gallant figure, between the delighted Macmurtrie girls. I, as chief story-tell-er, set in the middle of the room, facing everybody.  It was, as you know, a long story to tell, beginning with the coming of the Spanish ship and my meeting with Don John. You may be sure there were linary parts I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to an understanding of the history, and there were linary parts I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to an understanding of the history, and there were list in which I did not figure well my-self, As to that, Bordeaux came to the rescue when the story had progressed as far as Maripeza's capture by the Macdonald.  It was fine to hear Bordeaux's eloquence ring ou	two hundred voices shouted the hall; then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seised my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning. I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordeaux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordeaux wrote a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hesged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would any promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faults with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so ansry over the things she said of herself that she has never offered to help me with the book again.  Bug for all that it has been a sweet task. There were times when my heart bied, times when my blood chilled at remembrance, and times when the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I sould not see what I was writing. The very dirk, you see, was lying on the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I sould not see what I was writing. The very dirk, you see, was lying on the table by my hand; and Mariposa, whom I had nisant to kill with it, was sitting by the castle hearth, sewing away for a little man who was to be called John Alvar.  For as I said at the beginning—which is so long ago that you have probably forgotten at peace has come upon Killelian Castle. We have lived in such quiet happiness—ever since the morning, when, after the great feast, Bordeaux and Masmurpie left us. I can still see those two friends as they were helped in	Fo Cal
The state of the s	trict gas at one price of $6 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by nointing out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year  SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Caten at Year (Furnished by W. AMOUNT.  BONDS. $65,500 Capital Traction 5's	whether be wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you sal swimmer-Yonk  NGE OF  gton St ck Example Exampl	Low. 110 109% 981½ 100% 101% 884½ 100 105 104½ 104½ 103 101¼ 100 105 104½ 104½ 103 101½ 104½ 105 104½ 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105	Last. 110% 100% 101% 84 101% 106 104% 105 103 101% 86 118 87½ 218 202 140 137 21 170 161 585 246 152 240 7 205	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Rorie, to leave you?"  "Thank you, lass," I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was, "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father-like Don Alvar-my grandfather?"  "Lass, I could almost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh." she breathed, with a strange a.we, "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn.  "I think I had better marry you." she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to."  "You dear, dear lass," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kiss of our life and grown-up love  It was a great day for us all. We gathered in Mistress Macmurtrie's parlor for a grand story-telling. Don Alvar sat by one side of the cheery hearth, with Mariposa at his feet. Alexander Macmurtrie and his good wife were at the other side. In the corper seat of the room sat Bordeaux, a gallant figure, between the delighted Macmurtrie girls. I, as chief story-teller, set in the middle of the room, facing everybody.  It was, as you know, a long story to tell, beginning with the coming of the Spanish ship and my meeting with Don John. You may be sure there were many parts I left out, for it was not many parts I left out, for it was not many parts I left out, for it was not many parts I left out, for it was not many parts I left out, for it was not many parts I left out, for it was not many series the history, and there were bits in which I did not figure well myself, As to that, Bordeaux came to the rescue when the story had progressed as far as Maripeza's capture by the Macdonald.  It was fine to hear Bordeaux's eloquence ring out. He had a wonderful gift of telling	two hundred voices shouted the hall; then the pipes shricked in time. Roderick Dow seised my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew them that he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning. I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordeaux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordeaux wrote a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hesged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would any promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faults with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so angry over the things she said of herself that she has never offered to help me with the book axuln.  Bug for all that it has been a sweet task. There were times when my heart bled, times when my blood chilled at remembrance, and times when the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I could not see what I was writing. The very dirk, you see, was lying on the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I could not see what I was writing. The very dirk, you see, was lying on the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I could not see what I was writing. The very dirk, you see, was lying on the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one and the castle man who was to be called John Alvar.  For as I said at the beginning—which is so long ago that you have probably forgotten a peace has come upon Kilelian Castle. We have lived in such quiet happine	Fo Ca Ott
The state of the s	trict gas at one price of $6 cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by notning out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year   SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Caten at Ye  (Furnished by W.  AMOUNT. BONDS. $65,500 Capital Traction 5's.  10,500 Washington Gas 5's.  4,000 Anacostia & Potomac R. F. 1,000 City and Suburban R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 6's.  99,000 Washington Ry. & Electric 49,000 Potomac Electric Cons. 5's.  11,000 Potomac Electric 5's.  6,900 N. & W. Steamboat 5's.  11,000 C. & P. Telephone 5's.  36,500 Riggs Realty 5's (long).  2,000 Riggs Realty 5's (short).  SHARES. STOCKS.  188 Capital Traction.  1,360 Washington Ry. & Electric c. 1,333 Washington Ry. & Electric c. 1,333 Washington Ry. & Electric c. 1,334 Washington Ry. & Electric c. 1,335 Washington Ry. & Electric c. 1,337 Washington Ry. & Electric c. 1,338 Washington Ry. & Electric c. 1,339 Washington Ry. & Electric c. 1,348 Lanston.  333 Mergenthaler  806 Commercial National Bank.  50 Citizeps' Savings Bank.  345 Union Trust.  600 Citizeps' Savings Bank.  357 Union Savings Bank.  367 Washington Loan & Trust.  578 Washington Loan & Trust.  579 Washington Loan & Trust.  570 Washington Loan & Trust.  571 Washington Loan & Trust.  572 Washington Loan & Trust.  573 Washington Loan & Trust.  574 Washington Loan & Trust.  575 Washington Loan & Trust.  576 Washington Loan & Trust.  577 Washington Loan & Trust.  578 Washington Loan & Trust.  579 Washington Loan & Trust.  570 Washington Loan & Trust.  571 Washington Loan & Trust.  572 Washington Loan & Trust.  573 Washington Loan & Trust.	whether be wins kicks. Redd—Why, how Green—No, you sal swimmer—Yonk  NGE OF  gton St ck Example Exampl	Low. 110 109% 981/2 100% 101% 884/2 100 105 1041/2 1041/2 104 103 1011/2 1041/2 106 118 871/2 217 196 137 136% 21 170 161 585 246 152 240 7	Last. 110% 105% 100% 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Rorie, to leave you?"  "Thank you, lass." I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvar—my grandfather?"  "Lass. I could almost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh." she breathed, with a strange a.we.  "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do." she said simply. "But you must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—l think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn.  "I think I had better marry you." she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to."  "You dear, dear lass," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kiss of our life and grown-up love  It was a great day for us all. We gathered in Mistress Macmurtrie's parlor for a grand story-telling. Don Alvar sat by one side of the cheery hearth, with Mariposa at his feet. Alexander Macmurtrie and his good wife were at the other side. In the corner seat of the room sat Bordeaux, a gallant figure, between the delighted Macmurtrie girls. I, as chief story-tell-er, set in the middle of the room, facing everybody.  It was, as you know, a long story to tell, beginning with the coming of the Spanish ship and my meeting with Don John. You may be sure there were many parts I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to an understanding of the history, and there were bits in which I did not figure well my-self. As to that, Bordeaux came to the rescue when the story had progressed as far as Maripeza's capture by the Macdonald.  It was fine to hear Bordeaux's eloquence ring out. He had a wonderful gift of telling a tale, but although everybody was peelingoind, my folish heart was pleaged to note how he praised me, and how Ma	two hundred voices shouted the hall; then the ploes shricked in time. Rederick Dow selsed my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew them that he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning. I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordeaux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordeaux wrote a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hesged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would any promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faults with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so angry over the things she said of herself that she has never offered to help me with the book asadn.  Bug for all that it has been a sweet task. There were times when my heart bled, times when my blood chilled at remembrance, and times when the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I could not see what I was writing. The very dirk, you see, was lying on the table by my hand; and Mariposa, whom I had meant to kill with it, was sitting by the enset hearth, sewing away for a little man who was to be called John Alvar.  For as I said at the beginning—which is so long ago that you have probably forgotten a peace has come upon Kilelian Casth. We have lived in such quiet happing-sa-ever since the inorning, when, after the great feast, Bordeaux and Masmurghie left us. I can see Herdeaux staralling erect—but a little unsteadily—wavening his bonnet and crying:  'Ah, parting is such sweet sorrow!''  I have not been him since and am not able to say who he is, save that I believe his real name; so "Br Raiph. I	Fo Ca Ott
The state of the s	In regard to the price Mr. Reeside qualifies his statement by nointing out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year SALES AND RALES A	whether be wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you sal swimmer-Yonk  NGE OF  gton St. ck Example ar to Date.  B. Hibbs & Co.)  High.  111  110½  8. 5's. 101  8. 103%  100½  4's. 85  102  105½  105½  105½  104  High.  126  000. 88½  pfd. 91¼  86¼  120  90  220  207  141  139  21  173  161  585  246  152  240  7  205½  315  270	Low. 110 109% 981½ 100% 101% 884½ 100 105 104½ 104½ 103 101¼ 103 101¼ 103 101¼ 103 101¼ 103 101½ 104½ 106 137 136% 217 196 137 136% 21 170 161 585 246 152 240 7 205 315	Last. 110% 105% 100% 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Rorie, to leave you?"  "Thank you, lass," I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father-like Don Alvarmy grandfather?"  "Lass, I could almost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh." she breathed, with a strange a.we,  "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do." she said simply. "But you, must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn.  "I think I had better marry you." she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to."  "You dear, dear lass," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kiss of our life and grown-up love  It was a great day for us all. We gathered in Mistress Macmurtrie's parlor for a grand story-telling. Don Alvar sat by one side of the cheery hearth, with Mariposm at his feet. Alexander Macmurtrie and his good wife were at the other side. In the corner seat of the room sat Bordeaux, a gallant figure, between the delighted Macmurtrie girls. I, as chief story-teller, set in the middle of the room, facing everybody.  It was, as you know, a long story to tell, beginning with the coming of the Spanish ship and my meeting with Don John. You may be sure there were hany parts I left out, for it was not may purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to an understood and an exciting whirt of events Bordeaux came to the rescue when the story had progressed as far as Mariposa, only girls, and delved deep into Highland laws and customs which nobody understood and how Mariposa would giance up at her grandfather, as if to seek his approval of me.  Amid ar exciting whirt of events Bordeaux carried us into Glasgow. These with muff, took up the history in a more p	then the pipes shricked in time. Rederick Dow selsed my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning. I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordeaux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordeaux wrote a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I begged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would any promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faults with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came night quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so ansay over the things she said of herself that she has never offered to help me with the book asualn.  Bug for all that it has been a sweet tasks. There were times when my heart bled, times when my blood chilled at remembrance, and times when the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the hannocks—I could not see what I was writing. The very dirk, you see, was slying on the table by my hand; and Mariposa, whom I had magant to kill with it, was sitting by the castle hearth, sewing away for a little man who was to be called John Alvar.  For as I said at the beginning—which is so long ago that you have probably forgotten at peace has come upon Killelian Castly. We have lived in such quiet happing sa-ever since the morning, when, after the great feast, Bordeaux and Masmurpie left us. I can still see these two friends as they were helped into the boat. I can see the little inwayer solemnly offering snuff to our serving—when, goderiek, and I can see Bordeaux starkling erect—but a little unsteadily—waving his bonnet and erry line of the chapter as wello	Fo Ca Ott
The state of the s	ricit gas at one price of se cents.  In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by pointing out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year   SALES AND RA  Of Securities on the Washing Caten ar Year (Furnished by W. AMOUNT.  BONDS. $65,500 Capital Traction 5's	whether be wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you sal swimmer. Your State Example of the Exampl	Low. 110 109% 981½ 100% 101% 88½ 100 105 104½ 103 101¼ 103 101¼ 103 101¼ 103 101¼ 103 101¼ 103 101½ 106 137 136% 217 196 137 136% 21 170 161 585 246 152 240 7 205 315 270	Last. 110% 100% 101% 84 101% 105 103 101% 86 118 87% 218 202 140 137 21 170 161 585 246 152 240 7 205 315 270 147 250	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Rorie, to leave you?"  "Thank you, lass," I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvarmy grandfather?"  "Jass, I could almost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh!" she breathed, with a strange awe,  "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking downinto her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn.  "I think I had better marry you." she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to."  "You dear, dear lass," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kiss of our life and grown-up love  It was a great day for us all. We gathered in Mistress Macmurtie's parlor for a grand story-telling. Don alvar sat by one side of the cheery hearth, with Mariposm at his feet. Alexander Macmurtie and his good wife were at the other side. In the corper seat of the room sat Bordeaux, a gallant figure, between the delighted Macmurtie girls. I, as chief story-teller, set in the middle of the room, facing everybody.  It was, as you know, a long story to tell, beginning with the coming of the Spanish ship and my meeting with Don John. You may be sure there were hand parts I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to an understanding of the history, and there were hits in which I did not figure well myself. As to that, Bordeaux came to the rescue when the story had progressed with must took up the history in a more prosaic fashion. He explained all about my fashiy and my rights, and delved deep into Highland laws and elved the	then the pipes shricked in time. Rederick Dow selsed my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew them that he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning. I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordeaux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordeaux wrote a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hesged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would any promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faults with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so ansay over the things she said of herself that she has newer offered to help me with the book asada.  Bug for all that it has been a sweet tasks. There were times when my heart bled, times when my blood chilled at remembrance, and times when the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I would not see what I was writing. The very dirk, you see, was lying on the table by my hand; and Mariposa, whom I had niseant to kill with it, was sitting by the quist happing sa-wer since the morning, when, after the great feast, Bordeaux and Masmungrie left us. I can still see these two friends as they were helped into the boat. I can see the little law-year solemnly offering sourf to our serving-man, goderick, and I can see Bordeaux starkling erect—but a little unsteadily—marging is such sweet sorrow!" I have not seen him since and am not able to say who he is, save that I believe his real name; is "Bir Raiph. Ik now not, but Macnuntrie swears he is Sir Raiph what or what Sir Raiph. Ik now not, but Macnuntrie swears he is Sir Raiph the Deevit." Piaye	Fo Can Ott
The state of the s	In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by nointing out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year are the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year are the Washington Calen ar Year (Furnished by W. AMOUNT.  BONDS.  $65,500 Capital Traction 5's.  10,500 Washington Gas 5's.  4,000 Anacostia & Potomac R. F. 1,000 City and Suburban R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 6's.  99,000 Washington Ry. & Electric 49,000 Potomac Electric Cons. 5's.  11,000 Potomac Electric Cons. 5's.  11,000 Potomac Electric 5's.  6,900 N. & W. Steamboat 5's.  11,000 C. & P. Telephone 5's.  36,500 Riggs Realty 5's (long).  2,000 Riggs Realty 5's (short).  SHARES. STOCKS.  188 Capital Traction.  1,360 Washington Ry. & Electric cons.  1,360 Washington By. & Electric cons.  1,360 Washington By. & Electric cons.  1,360 Washington By. & Electric cons.  1,360 Washington Gas.  50 Eastern Light & Fuel.  1,735 Washington Bank.  200 Citizens' Savings Bank.  100 Chapin-Sacks  50 Riggs National Bank.  101 Chapin-Sacks  51 Riggs National Bank.  102 Chapin-Sacks  53 Riggs National Bank.  103 Washington Loan & Trust.  104 National Metropolitan Bank.  105 Washington Loan & Trust.  106 Citizens' Savings Bank.  107 National Bavings & Trust.  108 Capital Tractional Bank.  109 Potomac Fire Ins. Co.	whether be wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you sal swimmer-Yonk  NGE OF  gton St ck Example Exampl	Low. 110 109% 981½ 100% 101% 88½ 100 105 104½ 104½ 103 101¼ 103 101¼ 103 101¼ 106 105 104½ 106 105 104½ 107 108 108 108 108 108 108 108 108 108 108	Last. 110% 105% 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 103 101% 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Rorie, to leave you?  "Thank you, lass," I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father—like Don Alvarmy grandfather?"  "Jass, I could almost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh." she breathed, with a strange awe.  "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking downinto her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn.  "I think I had better marry you." she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to."  "You dear, dear lass," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kiss of our life and grown-up love  It was a great day for us all. We gathered in Mistress Macmurtrie's parlor for a grand story-telling. Don Alvar sat by one side of the cheery hearth, with Mariposm at his feet. Alexander Macmurtrie and his good wife were at the other side. In the corper seat of the room sat Bordeaux, a gallant figure, between the delighted Macmurtrie girls. I, as chief story-teller, set in the middle of the room, facing everybody.  It was, as you know, a long story to tell, beginning with the coming of the Spanish ship and my meeting with Don John. You may be sure there were hany parts I left out, for it was not many parts I left out, for it was not many parts I left out, for it was not many parts I left out, for it was not many parts I left out, for it was not many seri. As to that, Bordeaux came to the rescue when the story had progressed as far as Maripeza's capture by the Macdonald.  It was fine to hear Bordeaux's eloquence ring out. He had a wonderful sit of telling a tale, but although everyholdy was spellound, my foolish heart was pleaged to note how we prose fashion. He expl	then the pipes shrieked in time. Rod- erick Dow seised my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the besinning. I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordeaux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordeaux wrote a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I begged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would ay promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faults with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, Indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so ansry over the things she said of herself that she has never offered to help me with the book again.  Bug for all that it has been a sweet task. There were times when my heart bled, times when my blood chilled at remembrance, and times when the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I ould not see what I was writing. The very dirk, you see, was lying on the table by my hand; and Mariposa, whom I had meant to kill with it, was sitting by the castle hearth, sewing away for a little man who was to be called John Alvar.  For as I said at the beginning—which is so long ago that you have probably forgotten is peace has come upon Kil- cillan Casth. We have lived in such quiet happings—sever since the morning, when, after the great feast, Bordeaux and Masmurgie left us. I can still see these two friends as they were helped into the buat. I can see the little law- yer solemnly offering snuff to our serving-man, goderick, and I can see Bordeaux staraling erect—but a little unsteadily—waving his bonnet and cry- ing:  "Ah, parting is such sweet	Fo Can Ott
The state of the s	In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by noining out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year are the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year are the Washington Calen ar Year (Furnished by W. AMOUNT.  SOURCE BONDS.  $65,500 Capital Traction 5's.  10,500 Washington Gas 5's.  4,000 Anacostia & Potomac R. F. 1,000 City and Suburban R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 6's.  99,000 Washington Ry. & Electric 49,000 Potomac Electric Cons. 5's.  11,000 Potomac Electric 5's.  6,900 N. & W. Steamboat 5's.  11,000 Potomac Electric 5's.  6,900 Riggs Realty 5's (long).  2,000 Riggs Realty 5's (short).  SHARES. STOCKS.  188 Capital Traction.  1,360 Washington Ry. & Electric cons.  1,360 Washington Ry.  2,400 Washington Ry.  2,500 Washingto	whether be wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you sal swimmer-Yonk  NGE OF  gton St ck Except to Date.  B. Hibbs & Co.)  High.  111  110½  8. 5's. 101  101½  4's. 85  102  105¼  105  105¼  106  105¼  High.  126  000 88½  ptd. 91¼  High.  126  000 88½  120  207  141  139  21  173  161  585  246  152  240  7  205¼  315  270  147  Bank. 250  30  40	Low. 110 109% 981½ 100% 101% 88½ 100 105 104½ 103% 101½ 104½ 103 101½ 104½ 106 118 87½ 217 196 137 136% 21 170 161 585 246 152 240 7 205 315 270 147 250 30 40	Last. 110% 105% 100% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Rorie, to leave you?"  "Thank you, lass." I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father-like Don Alvarmy grandfather?"  "Jass. I could almost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh!" she breathed, with a strange awe.  "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn.  "I think I had better marry you." she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to."  "You dear, dear lass," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kiss of our life and grown-up love It was a great day for us all. We gathered in Mistress Macmurtrie's parlor for a grand story-telling. Don Alevar sat by one side of the cheery hearth, with Mariposm at his feet. Alexander Macmurtrie and his good wife were at the other side. In the corper seat of the room set Bordeaux, a gallant figure, between the delighted Macmurtrie girls. I, as chief story-tellier, set in the middle of the room, facing everybody.  It was, as you know, a long story to tell, beginning with the coming of the Spanish ship and my meeting with Don John. You may be sure there were many parts I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to sit understanding of the history, and there were his in which I did not figure well myself. As to that, Bordeaux came to the rescue when the story had progressed as far as Maripeza's capture by the Macdonald.  It was fine to hear Bordeaux's eloquence ring out. He had a wonderful gift of telling a tale, but although everyholdy was a spellabuind, my foolish heart was pleaged to note how he praised me, and her g	then the pipes shrieked in time. Rod- erick Dow seised my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew then that he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning. I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, said Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordeaux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me instead. True, Bordeaux wrote a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hesged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would ay promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find so many faulte with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so ansry over the things she said of herself that she has never offered to help me with the book axain.  Bug for all that it has been a sweet task. There were times when my heart bled, times when my blood chilled at remembranco, and times when the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At the end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I could not see what I was writing. The very dirk, you see, was lying on the table by my hand; and Mariposa, whom I had meant to kfil with it, was sittins by the custle hearth, sewing away for a little man who was to be called John Alvar.  For as I said at the beginning—which is so long ago that you have probably forrotten at peace has come upon Kil- elian Castle. We have lived in such quiet happing-ss—ever since the morning.  "Ah, parting is such sweet sorrow."  I have not seen him since and am not able to say who be is, save that I be- lieve his roal name; is "Sir Raiph. Sir Raiph What or what Sir Raiph. Sir emand the	Fo Ca Ott Language La
The state of the s	In regard to the price Mr Reeside qualifies his statement by nointing out that the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year are the Washington company's contracts for oil will expire with the year are the Washington Calen ar Year (Furnished by W. AMOUNT.  BONDS.  $65,500 Capital Traction 5's.  10,500 Washington Gas 5's.  4,000 Anacostia & Potomac R. F. 1,000 City and Suburban R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 5's.  2,000 Columbia R. R. 6's.  99,000 Washington Ry. & Electric 49,000 Potomac Electric Cons. 5's.  11,000 Potomac Electric Cons. 5's.  11,000 Potomac Electric 5's.  6,900 N. & W. Steamboat 5's.  11,000 C. & P. Telephone 5's.  36,500 Riggs Realty 5's (long).  2,000 Riggs Realty 5's (short).  SHARES. STOCKS.  188 Capital Traction.  1,360 Washington Ry. & Electric cons.  1,360 Washington By. & Electric cons.  1,360 Washington By. & Electric cons.  1,360 Washington By. & Electric cons.  1,360 Washington Gas.  50 Eastern Light & Fuel.  1,735 Washington Bank.  200 Citizens' Savings Bank.  100 Chapin-Sacks  50 Riggs National Bank.  101 Chapin-Sacks  51 Riggs National Bank.  102 Chapin-Sacks  53 Riggs National Bank.  103 Washington Loan & Trust.  104 National Metropolitan Bank.  105 Washington Loan & Trust.  106 Citizens' Savings Bank.  107 National Bavings & Trust.  108 Capital Tractional Bank.  109 Potomac Fire Ins. Co.	whether be wins kicks. Redd-Why, how Green-No, you sal swimmer-Yonk  NGE OF  gton St ck Except to Date.  B. Hibbs & Co.)  High.  111  110½  8. 5's. 101  101½  4's. 85  102  105¼  105  105¼  106  105¼  High.  126  000 88½  ptd. 91¼  High.  126  000 88½  120  207  141  139  21  173  161  585  246  152  240  7  205¼  315  270  147  Bank. 250  30  40  75	Low. 110 109% 981½ 100% 101% 88½ 100 105 104½ 104½ 103 101¼ 103 101¼ 103 101¼ 106 105 104½ 106 105 104½ 107 108 108 108 108 108 108 108 108 108 108	Last. 110% 105% 100% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 103% 101% 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105 105	now that I have a name and fortune, would it be fair like, Rorie, to leave you?"  "Thank you, lass." I could only say. "It is more than I deserve." Which, indeed, it was.  "Tell me, lad," she whispered, "was Don John-my father-like Don Alvarmy grandfather?"  "Jass. I could almost think he is your father grown old."  "Oh!" she breathed, with a strange awe.  "And you," I whispered passionately, catching her to me and looking down into her suddenly solemn eyes, "you are so like Mistres Mary today. If we could only love one another as they did."  "We do," she said simply. "But you must not doubt me again, Rorie. It makes you so unhappy. I think—I think I—"  "Well?" I said, for she had grown terribly solemn.  "I think I had better marry you." she said, quite seriously. "Then you will know that I cannot run away from you again, even if I ever wished to."  "You dear, dear lass," I whispered, and she gave me the first great kiss of our life and grown-up love It was a great day for us all. We gathered in Mistress Macmurtrie's parlor for a grand story-telling. Don Alevar sat by one side of the cheery hearth, with Mariposm at his feet. Alexander Macmurtrie and his good wife were at the other side. In the corper seat of the room set Bordeaux, a gallant figure, between the delighted Macmurtrie girls. I, as chief story-tellier, set in the middle of the room, facing everybody.  It was, as you know, a long story to tell, beginning with the coming of the Spanish ship and my meeting with Don John. You may be sure there were many parts I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to sit understanding of the history, and there were his in which I did not figure well myself. As to that, Bordeaux came to the rescue when the story had progressed as far as Maripeza's capture by the Macdonald.  It was fine to hear Bordeaux's eloquence ring out. He had a wonderful gift of telling a tale, but although everyholdy was a spellabuind, my foolish heart was pleaged to note how he praised me, and her g	then the pipes shricked in time. Rederick Dow sessed my hand and wrung it hard. And I knew them that he had been a good friend to me, as he had promised that day in the glen.  It is nearly two years since I began writing this book, but as I said in the beginning. I am not yet free with the Sassenach. And while my slow pen has been writing, such mischievous things as time, love, and Mariposa have been adding to my task.  As I said somewhere on the way, Bordeaux and Mariposa both promised to help me, but they have pestered me incread. True, Bordeaux wrote a bit, but it was so strangely worded that I hesged leave of him to leave it out. Mariposa would any promise to write the next chapter if I let her read the last, but she would find se many faulte with what I had to say of myself that whiles we came nigh quarreling. Once, indeed, she showed me in a few pages how she thought the story should be written, but I grew so ansry over the things she said of herself that she has never offered to help me with the book analy.  Bug for all that it has been a sweet task. There were times when my heart bled, times when my blood chilled at remembrance, and times when the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At time end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I could not see what I was writing. The very dirk, you see, was lying on the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At time end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I could not see what I was writing. The very dirk, you see, was lying on the tears of my shame fell upon the pages. At time end of the chapter—that one about the dirk and the bannocks—I could not see what I was writing. The very dirk, you see, was lying on the tasks by my hand; and Mariposa, whom I had meant to kill with it, was sitting by the ensite hearth, sewing away for a little man who was to be called John Alvar.  For as I said at the beginning—which is so long as the sew of the moriting when, after the great feast, Bordeaux and she have help the serious seen him since	Fo Ca Ott

THE TIMES DAILY SERIAL STORK DAUGHTER OF THE ARMADA

By Stephen Chalmers

Macmurtrie girls. I. as chief story-teller, sat in the middle of the room, facing everybody.

It was, as you know, a long story telleging of the spanish ship and my neeting with Don Join. You may be sure there were many parts I left out, for it was not my purpose to hurt the old gentleman more than was necessary to an understanding of the history, and there well my seaf. As to that, Bordeaux came to the rescue when the story had progressed as far as Maripoas's capture by the Macdonald.

It was fine to hear Bordeaux's eloquence ring out. He had a wonderful sit of telling a tale, but although everybody was spellbound, my foolish hear was pleaged to note how he praised me, and how Maripoan would giance up at her grandfather, as if to seek his approval of me.

Amid ar exciting whirl of events Bordeaux carried us into Glasgow. Then decaux carried us into Glasgow. Then devance manufacture, stiling his nose with snuff, took up the history in a more prossic fashion. He explained all about my family and my rights, and deved deep into Highland laws and were a sept of the Campble clan, of which the Earl of Argyll bell clan, of which the Earl of Argyll bell clan, of which the Earl of Argyll bell clan, of which the bar of them, said Macmurtrie, in his best Lowland Engilsh, 'they are by heritage the helds of the Kilelian sept. Of course, there can had been to say who ke is, service of Mariponi's desire to the Kilelian sept. Of course, there can had been to say who ke is, service the heart's advice and marry-town of the market of the manural to the mining whi

Victims of Maine

Chr. Hintenach, G. E. Rauch, Sheridan Furres, George R. Evans.
Committee representing the Army and Navy Union, U. S. A.—Edward Lina, Capt. John C. Daley, William A. Hickey, Edward G. Burch. Ted A. Thomas, J. F. McCourry, E. L. Robinson, H. G. Stroschein, E. C. Goes, A. W. Allen, Dr. Samuel L. Hannon, N. A. Martin, John J. Ryan, Archibald Evans, F. L. Kidwell.

Taft Backs MacVeagh In Pulp Case Decision

Because Canada has removed the ex-port tax on paper pulp manufactured from timber grown on certain timber from timber grown on certain timber lands, instead of removing the export duty on the timber itself, so that its conversion into pulp could be accompished in this country, is given as the reason President Taft has affirmed the decision of Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh that Canada's action was not sufficient to permit the pulp to enter the United States free of duty.

This decision, which holds up the tariff wall against pulp manufactured from the timber of certain crown lands in Quebec, hars four large paper pulp factories, according to report, from sending large shipments of their product to this country.

FINANCIAL

Don't Forget the Spring Opening of Bradley Hills

Real Estate Trust Co. Exclusive Agents, 1414 F St.

ALSO

Fourteenth Street Terrace, Capital View Terrace and Other High-Class Properties.

The Safest Investments

Are those that de not fluctuate during dis-turbed conditions of the money or stock mar-kets. First deed of trust notes (first mort-gages), well secured on real estate in the District of Columbia, constitute "mit-edge" investments. They do not depand upon the financial responsibility of individuals or cor-porations for their stability, and are exempt from taxation as personal property. We can supply such investments in amounts from 1500 upward. Send jor booklet. "Concerning Leans and Investments."

SWARTZELL, RHEEM & HENSEY CO.

THE STREET N. W.

Times Want Columns

Phone Main 5260

Don't Confine Your

Message To the Public Passing Your Door

Secure the WIDEST PUB-LICITY; ase the Wa ton Times and its wide cir culation and tell your wh in one day. You can rent no longer needed by using and reading Washington Times Want Ads. Pho Main 5260.

SPECIAL NOTICES

ASSISTANT AND CONSULTATION PRESENTS IN A M. to I P. M. Sunday, II S. PROF. H. N. D. PARKER

GET BOOKLET. IT WILL DO TOU GOOD The CANDY for SUNDAY is DOLLLY MADE. SON—100 varieties, pure and freeh, 139 11th Phone M. 5154. Open Sunday.

JOIN OUR CLUB If per month we will make minor as spunge and press one sult or overcoa week . All goods called for and usity BEST ADVERTISING SPECIALTIES to ask your business. Let GEORGE W. JOHES show you. 60: Munacy Building, Weshington. Those M. 1150.

YEATMAN Stove: Latrobe furnace work. Roof & pairing. Md. and Sixth S. W. M. ES. MOVING, PACKING, STORAGE

Let Us Pack < PINOT ADDRESS

Your furniture, chins, brica-bric, &c., for shipment to other cities. We employ expert packers only.

STORAGE, MOVING, SHIPPING,
Merchants' Transfer & Storage Co., 920-922 E St. N. W.

PACK, STORE,
MOVE, OR SHIP
ANYTHING
QUICKLY, SAFELY, CHEAPLY,
ICS H at N. W. Phone M. ICIQ KRIEG'S

PADLED vans. 14 & 15 ld.; S.b., wagon. S. 14.
Phone Main 1815-1814.
COLUMBIA TRANSPER & STORAGE CO.,
166 N. Y. Ave. N. W.,
Packing and Shipping. Storage. 12 van load. SET OUR ESTIMATES OF ABSOLUTAN PROOF STORAGE MOVING MOVING MOVING UN STATES STORAGE CO. GL-33 IND OF PAGES M. GER WE DO PACKING-Househeld mods for ahipment: storage in private spartments-Pres hauling to our storage LITTLEFIELD, ALVORD 4 CO 667 14th st. aw

LOST AND FOUND

LOST—Near Alexandria, 2 female hound pupa January 13. answer to the name of Magais and Dollie, one with black head and other with black and tan head white body. Ro-ward if returned to GEORGE DUNCAN. In-quire at E9 154 st. S. W. LOST-Black and tan male dor February 4 name "Billikins" is reward. 318 H st.